Senate Votes Today on Relief Stop-Gap

History In Faces

(By Associated Press)

THERE'S more than one way of writing history. The usual way is to write it in terms of politics, economics and sociology. But in the Spanish war for the first time photographs have recorded history fully in terms of emotions felt by the common men and women and children on both sides. Here are leaves from a modern history:

Madrid's long siege starts, and three generations help militia dig in.

One Madrid woman carries on; one cries on.

The siege is lifted and tears fall at the Alcazar.

Asturians meet Franco with dynamite.

War shadows stop play in Spain's sunshine.

War-plagued peasants take the family cow and the bedding and head for France.

PATH CLEARED TO GIVE NEEDY FIVE MILLION

Administration Leaders Laud Republican Harmony as Bill Goes to Upper Chamber.

END AMENDMENT FIGHT

Senate Chieftains Sidetrack Plan to Slash Six-Month Appropriation Bill.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS —Administration-supported house leadership celebrated another victory in the interests of Republican harmony today as the senate received the $5,000,000 poor relief bill for a vote when the session opens this afternoon. The house has passed the bill.

The relief bill will go to the senate floor substantially as it was sent from the house despite a move in the senate taxation committee to effect a three-months' moratorium in the dollar-for-dollar matching provision.

Amendment Tabled.

An amendment offered by Sen. Horace S. Keifer (R., Springfield) was adopted by the committee which would have required counties that have no matching money to pay their share of relief in May and June only.

Under the urging of Speaker William M. McCulloch and Republican Majority Leader J. Harry McGregor the committee reconsidered the action, which would have slashed the six months' relief program from $10,000,000 to $6,250,000, and eventually tabled the amendment.

Sens. Don R. Thomas (D., Dayton) Thomas L. Gallagher (D., Cleveland) and Robert H. Hoffman (R., Columbus) opposed the reconsideration motion, but Hoffman voted with seven other committee members to recommend the bill for passage.

Cities Get 'Breather.'

A breathing spell was afforded urban communities who had fought the matching provision in the bill for the past two weeks when an amendment carried which will credit relief expenditures for January to the cities for matching purposes.

Invited to the committee session, McCulloch assured the members that it would be impossible to secure 91 votes for concurrence in the moratorium amendment.

"For the smaller counties to agree on the distribution of relief on a needs basis is a substantial concession," McCulloch told the committee, "but to expect the house to vote for an amendment knocking out matching until May 1 would be impossible."

MORE COLD DUE

Frigid Wave Nearing Chicago, May Reach Mansfield.

While Mansfield continued to experience normal winter weather today, storm warnings flew anew in the midwest, with another cold wave and blizzard reported heading for Chicago, still trying to dig out of an 18-inch snow.

The new cold wave, reported to be moving slowly eastward, will be preceded by rain or snow tonight and Thursday in Ohio, the forecast said, but by the time it reaches this section is expected to have lost some of its intensity.

The mercury in Mansfield stood at 32 at noon today, four degrees under a 10:30 reading. Last night's low was 15. The average for the past 24 hours was 25.5, just a half degree below normal.

IGNORES HITLER

BBC to Pay No Attention to Warning on News Broadcasts.

LONDON— (AP) —The British Broadcasting Corporation decided today to ignore a warning by Chancellor Hitler that "if broadcasts sent from certain foreign countries to Germany do not cease we will soon end them."

Official circles said that there "was no intention of discontinuing" the BBC nightly news bulletins in German.

Basketball Team Without Coach, So Women Teachers Pilot Squad

And They're Doing Right Well, for West Fifth's 4th In School League.

By CHARLES MARTIN

WHEN the West Fifth Street school organized a basketball team last fall to compete in the Grade School league championship race, it found itself in somewhat of a dilemma.

The school possessed its share of promising basketball players—but it had no coach!

The reason for the shortage of coaching talent was due to the absence of men teachers on the school staff. Principal Glenn Robinson, the only male instructor, would have undertaken the job, but his numerous duties as the school head prevented it.

So players and team supporters started a search for someone to take the job.

* * *

They didn't have to search long. Two sprightly women teachers in the school volunteered their services.

There may have been a few students who were a little skeptical as to women's coaching ability, but not for long.

These two teachers had accomplished a pretty fair job of leading the West Fifth school track team into third place in the Grade School relay meets last spring, and both had experience as basketball players.

So Miss Virginia Anderson and Miss Margaret Black began the difficult task of molding together a team they hoped would figure in the title chase.

How well they have succeeded in the current race can be judged by a glance at the standings. The West Fifth streeters are riding along in fourth place in the 10-team circuit.

Although the team never has been higher than third, it has provided several interesting afternoons for the leaders. The last tussle with the pace-setting Bowman cagers they forced their opponents all the way, losing out in the final minutes of the contest by a four-point margin.

"Our biggest job," Miss Anderson said, "is to get the youngsters (the players are fifth and sixth grade students) to shoot hard enough to hit the backboards. And then we just pray the boys will be lucky enough to get the ball through the nets."

January Sets 1939 Off to Speedy Start

Clearings, Car Sales and Building Run Ahead of Same Month In '38.

Bank clearings, automobile sales and building permits for the month of January got 1939 off to a fast start in Mansfield, bearing out predictions of better business and indicating a good year generally.

Bank clearings for the month totalled $6,871,276, a gain of $356,259 over the same month of 1938, and only $500,000 behind last December's figures. December is considered one of the high months for bank clearances.

New automobile sales for the month which closed yesterday were nearly three times as for the same month a year ago.

154 Car Sales.

Norman P. Henry, deputy clerk of courts, listed 154 new car sales in the county for January, as compared to only 55 for January of 1938.

The building permit total was swollen by the school board's application for the new Johnny Appleseed building permit, which was $400,000, sending the month's total to $463,600.

However, even without the school building permit, the total for January was nearly double the figure for January, 1938, which was $33,110.

Construction of new homes accounted for $52,400 of the $463,600 total, records at the city building indicated. A year ago, only two domestic residence permits were written, for a total of $8,500.

Like bank clearings, automobile sales were off from the December figure—182 new car sales were recorded in December. However, truck sales were up, with 18 for the month, as compared with 15 for December and only 10 for January of 1938.

To add another bright note to the story, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, which operates one of its most important divisions in Mansfield, released its annual report for 1938 today, with the comment that "there was a definite improvement" during January.

The company showed a net profit of $9,052,773 for 1938, as compared to $20,126,408 for 1937. Directors voted a dividend of 50 cents a share on common stock and a quarterly dividend of 87½ cents a share on participating preferred, to stockholders of record Feb. 14. Payment will be made Feb. 28.

The fourth federal reserve district in Cleveland also released

BERLIN BRANDS ROOSEVELT AS WAR AGITATOR

Press Attack Says America Ends Neutrality Stand on European Affairs.

SENATORS RAP STATEMENT

Nye, Johnson Flay Secrecy at Senate Meetings Following President's Remarks.

(By United Press)

BERLIN — "America's boundary is the Rhine," the newspaper Nachtausgabe proclaimed across its front page today in an attack on President Roosevelt's statement to the senate military affairs committee.

"Unbelievable agitation by President Roosevelt follows the fuehrer's peace speech," the headline continued. There followed a full page report by August Halfeld, the paper's New York correspondent, on the president's remarks:

'Second Wilson.'

"This action by Mr. Roosevelt is unprecedented since the World war," the dispatch said. "It leaves no doubt that Roosevelt is a second Wilson who is consciously treading in the footsteps of his democratic predecessor. . . .

"It is clear that the United States have conclusively broken off their neutrality policy. The policy of American intervention in European affairs has become a fact.

"Yesterday's committee meeting thus attained fundamental importance for Germany and her friendly totalitarian nations. Washington since yesterday is the official center of war-mongering agitation against the totalitarian states."

Other late evening papers took the same tone. Lokal Anzieger headlined its story. "Roosevelt at head of war agitators. Behind closed doors he declares America's borders also are on the Rhine."

Nachtausgabe continued:

"The world now has to decide whether it is for peace or war; whether it is ready with Germany and Italy to support the equality of peoples and thus serve peace, or whether it wants to participate in an attack on Germany and Italy in the interests of the Jews, which President Roosevelt has openly announced.

'Commissioned By Jewry.'

"Mr. Roosevelt, commissioned by Jewry, wants to arm against us and make France and Britain into a battlefield because we will not

FIRST JOBLESS PAY ARRIVES

Unemployed Night Watchman Says $12 From U. C. C. to Keep Him Off Relief.

A $12 check, the first to be received in Mansfield under the new unemployment compensation law, was to be cashed today to buy groceries for an unemployed night watchman so he and his family can keep off the relief rolls.

The first payment in the Mansfield district arrived in the mail this morning for Gilbert H. Vaughn, 35, of 299 Coul street.

"I'd be willing to give the check back if I could get a job," Vaughn said. "It's going to come in mighty handy, though. If it wasn't for this check I don't know what we would do. It will help a lot until I can find work.

"The money I get through this means will help to keep me from going on relief. That's something I don't want to do."

Vaughn said that he had formerly been employed as night watchman at a lumber company. He is married and has one child.

Maurice K. Wells, manager of the Mansfield district office of the Ohio Unemployment Compensation commission here, who accepted the pay order which was attached to the check and which assures Vaughn of a $12 payday for the next 15 weeks, said that Vaughn's first pay order had been signed here Monday.

Wells said that by the end of the week similar checks in varying amounts should be received by approximately 250 persons in this district who filed their claims the first week in January.

Wells estimated that approximately 1,000 persons in the Mansfield district will be receiving benefits by the end of February.

SWISS READY

War Minister Says Border Will Be Defended Against 'Any Foe.'

BERNE, Switzerland—(INS)—The Swiss army is prepared to oppose any aggressor "whoever it might be," the war minister told the federal chamber in a review of Swiss defenses today.

"We have confidence in our army," he said.

"If Switzerland were attacked by any great power, we would have no option but to defend ourselves with all our strength and to the last drop of our blood."

FACES CHARGE

HOLC Appraiser Confesses He Tampered With Ballots.

HAMILTON—(AP)—Henry Kessling, 45, precinct judge and recently an appraiser for the Home Owners Loan corporation here, was indicted by the Butler county grand jury today on a charge of ballot-tampering in connection with defeat of a school bond issue in the November election.

Prosecutor Paul A. Paden said Kessling confessed, explaining he erased "yes" markings on ballots and changed them to "no" because he "didn't want to see higher taxes and had "seen so many foreclosures as an HOLC worker."

The proposed two mill levy was designed to raise $126,000 for school operations.

DIES IN BLAZE

SALEM — (U.P.) — A bill-passer's discovery of flames came too late to save the life of Mrs. Sue Felshaw, 65.

Charles Vincent, 25, was on Mrs. Felshaw's porch, fastening a handbill to the door knob when he smelled smoke. He pushed the door open and saw Mrs. Felshaw in a chair, her body in flames.

SENATOR BORAH SERIOUSLY ILL

Idaho Lawmaker Removed to Hospital; Capital Hears He Has Pneumonia.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Sen. William E. Borah, R., Ida., was taken to Emergency hospital in an ambulance today and it was reported without confirmation that he was suffering from pneumonia.

There were conflicting reports as to the exact nature of the 73-year-old senator's illness. His office said he was suffering from la grippe. Offices of his physicion said he was suffering from influenza. A hospital assistant said that his illness had turned into pneumonia.

Borah, whose powerful influence in international affairs in the senate made him one of the best known Americans in the world, became ill a few days ago. Yesterday it was announced that he had a cold.

Borah's advanced age and custom of working intensively have occasioned fears for his health since his serious illness following the last session of congress.

A member of the senate since 1907, he is best known for his work as chairman of the senate foreign relations committee while the Republican party was in power. An outstanding isolationist whose influence has been a powerful factor in shaping American foreign policy.

FLU CLOSES SCHOOL

GEORGETOWN — (INS) — Because of an influenza epidemic, the school at nearby Ripley closed today. Russellville schools were shut down yesterday. Sixty cases of flu were discovered at Ripley and more than 100 at Russellville.

DIES TONIGHT

Police Killer to Go to Chair; Bricker Refuses Clemency.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Gov. John W. Bricker announced today that he would not intervene in the scheduled electrocution at Ohio penitentiary tonight of John W. Cline of West Elkton, convicted of slaying Patrolman Aaron Laubach of Hamilton on Jan. 27, 1938.

Bricker said he acted upon the recommendation of a clemency board which held after a hearing that there were no grounds for intervention. Counsel for Cline had sought commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment.

Laubach was shot to death during an attempted filling station hold-up.

RIVER DROPPING

Flood Danger in Ohio Valley Passes After Heavy Rain.

EAST LIVERPOOL — (U.P.) — Danger of an Ohio river flood passed today when a crest of 28.2 feet was reached here after rain, snow and sleet over the watershed caused an unexpected rise.

The river started to fall one-tenth of a foot in an hour at 8 a. m and government engineers at Dam No. 8 near here, said there would be no damage from the swollen stream.

WHITEHILL OUT

Indians Give Veteran Pitcher Unconditional Release.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw pitcher, has been given his unconditional release, it was announced today by Frank Kohlbacker, business manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Mr. Groundhog, Here's Hoping You Don't—Tomorrow

Although there's been less than a month of honest-to-goodness winter, there are few who aren't hoping that Mr. Woodchuck doesn't see his shadow.

You surely remember that tomorrow is Feb. 2, and the day on which it is decided whether there will be six more weeks of winter snow and winds and low temperatures, or whether spring will come popping up over the hills early.

The weather is decided, according to an old tradition, by the groundhog. He sticks his small, blunt proboscis out of his winter nest and sniffs about. If the day is dark and cloudy, and there is no sun, then he is supposed to stretch and wave farewell to winter.

But if the little rascal should glance beside him and see his shadow there, he hi-tails it right back to his winter bungalow and goes to sleep for another six weeks, leaving the winds of winter to howl.

So every one who hopes for an early spring must concentrate on Old Sol tomorrow, begging him to stay behind the clouds throughout the day—because you never can tell just when lazy, ol' woodchuck will waddle out for his survey.

36 ON BUS HURT

School Children Injured When Truck Rams Vehicle.

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. — (AP) — Thirty-six school children and two drivers were under treatment today for injuries suffered when a truck skidded into the back of a school bus on an icy road.

ARMY BOMBER ON TEST FLIGHT

Takes Off on Hop to Ohio to Test Sub-Strato Equipment.

MARCH FIELD, RIVERSIDE, Cal.—(U.P.)—An army bomber took off from here today en route to Dayton, O., to test newly-developed equipment for flying in the sub-stratosphere at altitudes beyond range of present anti-aircraft guns.

The plane flew here yesterday from the Boeing aircraft plant at Seattle.

En route to Ohio it will fly over Tucson, Ariz., El Paso, Tex., and spend tonight at Kelly Field, Texas, proceeding to Dayton tomorrow.

1,200 Listen In Awe to Magic Voice of Marian Anderson In Stirring Concert

Contralto Captivates Her Audience In Brilliant Concert Program.

By JANE WILLIAMS

While members of the reception committee of the Civic Music association paced the corridor last night at Senior High school auditorium, nervously awaiting Marian Anderson as the hour of her concert drew nearer, the singer herself sat in a classroom down the hall reading a school text book and writing German and French exercises on the black board.

Watches in nervous hands pointed to 8:10 before any one discovered the presence of the tall, stately colored girl who has the world of music at her feet. She had been in the classroom since 6 o'clock, calmly studying and reading.

A few minutes after she had been found, she swept out onto the stage and with her first song thrilled a Mansfield audience of 1,200 as it probably never had been thrilled by music before—and perhaps never will be again.

Perhaps Toscanini was right when he said that Marian Anderson's voice was the greatest voice of the past 100 years; certainly no greater voice has been heard in this generation.

Last night her sheer skill exercised a magnetic power over the audience that kept it perfectly quiet; there wasn't the rustle of a program nor a whispered word while she sang. There was no annoying clearing of throats and only one or two muffled coughs throughout the evening. A great sigh, at the end of each song, swept over the

Glamour A Must For Debs

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It used to be thought that all a girl could ask for was to be eighteen, reasonably pretty, socially secure, and to be expensively introduced to society with all the eligible young men of her period thus brought within easy reach.

This is no longer enough.

Nowadays, a girl may score all the points already tabulated, but if she is to make the success she longs for, she must have something more. She must have "glamour" too.

The glamour girl, to use the current phrase, must have mystery—or people must be led to believe that she has it. She must be curiously provoking, so that great numbers of onlookers will wish to see her. Yet when they once behold her, she must baffle while she dazzles them. She must excite envy, admiration, despair, and, of course, love. And she must be a public figure, photographed, talked about, interviewed.

Now, admitting that it's a great thing to be glamourous, how does a girl get that way?

Not, of course, by mere dreaming and hoping.

On the contrary, the production of glamour is rather a business-like affair.

First of all, and without being the least cynical, I would say that the girl must be rich. Economy mustn't be mentioned or thought of while the experts of two continents are teaching her what to do with her face and hair, how to manage her body, how to dance, how to practice sports, how to buy clothes and wear them.

Second, she must have at least the basis on which beauty, or an imitation of it, may be built. A downright homely girl, whatever her fortune, can never make the grade. And the beauty must be fostered by delicious and expensive grooming.

Third, the girl must have a way with her, a certain dash.

Fourth, the legend of her irresistible attractiveness must leak out at least by the season before her actual debut. Sub-debutantes get plenty of publicity nowadays. By the time the candidate for glamour makes her official bow to society, at however fabulous expense, it's then too late to establish the belief that she's certain to eclipse her competitors

Apricots stuffed with mint and currant jelly make dainty spring garnishes for baked ham, roast lamb, meat loaf, chicken or mushroom souffles and veal cutlets.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, most will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, Feb. 2.

Rather "mixed influences," according to astrological testimonies, are found in this day's chart. While there may be sudden and surprising opportunities for progress and expanding good fortunes, there also may be a definite obstacle or delay in reaching these desirable objectives. This might possibly have to do with the personal activities or that of the family. It is probable that strangers or distant influences may assist to a beneficial change. Secret alliances may be lucrative.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of rather conflicting conditions. There is much opportunity for gain and expanded interests, but there is a delaying, impeding or disappointing influence as well. This might be due to illness or depression. Distant matters, strangers or large interests or political organizations may figure in one's success and demand a change of plans.

A child born on this day may have varied talents, much ingenuity and skill, although disposed to "hide its light under a bushel" through morbidity, lack of confidence or physical debility.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I replied: "Let the call wait until we get to our rooms. I'll take it there."

From somewhere in the offing the suave, modishly attired manager of the Lansfield materialized, and spoke softly, insinuatingly at my elbow.

"Wouldn't you like to take the call in my private office, Mrs. Graham? It's just a few steps from here."

"I think not, thank you," I answered. "It can wait until I get to my room."

Mr. Milner hesitated for an instant, and then with the air of fearing the wrath of Jove more than mine, spoke again.

"Mr. Veritzen is the one who is calling, long distance. The operator already has told him that you are just entering the hotel. You know he does not like—"

The elevator door opened, and I motioned Mary to precede me into it, as I interrupted Mr. Milner with a lack of courtesy that I deplored but which appeared to be my only recourse in the face of his persistence.

"I am very well aware of Mr. Veritzen's lack of patience," I said firmly. "Nevertheless, please say to him that I am on my way to my rooms, and will take his call as soon as I reach there."

The manager bowed from the waist as if he recognized in me the inevitable. Then he gave the signal to the operator, and the elevator shot upward.

Mary kept her lips tightly closed until the bell boy carrying our bags had departed, and we had closed the door. Then as Miss Whitlock warmly greeted us, Mary emitted an emphatic "Yippee!" and clipped me around the waist.

"Your father-in-law is biting chunks out of the atmosphere," the nurse said. "He's been on the telephone at intervals of two minutes for the last quarter of an hour."

"I'll take his call now," I told her, and going across the room sat down before the telephone and took off the receiver.

"Will you please put Mr. Veritzen's call on here now," I said, and the operator's voice was distinctly worried when she answered.

"He has disconnected," she said. "He asked me to tell you he would not trouble you further now, but requested that you and Mrs. Veritzen remain in your suite until he returns. He is driving back and should be here before five o'clock."

I do not know when anything has so irked me as did this request, which I knew was really a command. I stiffened perceptibly and looking across at Mary said slowly and distinctly:—

"Unfortunately, Mrs. Veritzen and I are going out shopping directly. We may be back at five o'clock, but we may be detained. If we are not back when he comes in, will you kindly ask him to wait until we do come in?"

I heard a little gasp of dismayed astonishment from the operator, and not waiting for any further reply, I replaced the receiver with emphasis. Mary was looking at me quizzically

"I gather something has disturbed the well-known equilibrium," she said. "Why the sudden yen to go shopping? I'd have sworn you didn't intend to stir out of the hotel again today."

"Nor did I," I returned with emphasis. "But your father-in-law not only disconnected when they told him I would take the call from up here, but virtually left a command that we should remain up here until he returns. I take dictation like that from no person on earth. Keep on your hat and come with me,—that is, of course, if you wish. But I'm going away from the hotel for the afternoon."

Facial Adds Beauty To Visage

By MME. QUI VIVE

Though methods of facial treatments vary they all have the same purpose, to revitalize the tissues and to renovate the skin fabric. Many a complexion is dingy and lifeless because it is not properly washed—given nothing more than a casual swishing of the washcloth—or because it is not kept lubricated. The daily use of some oily cosmetic does wonders for the facial covering. It wards off desquamation that is due to the ravages of wind and sun.

The professional session begins with repeated cleansings with oil. Not only the facial area is treated, but neck, chest, shoulders, and the upper portion of the back.

The operator anoints her hands with a heavy cream, does a gentle palming, beginning at the collar bones, working upward. Special movements are given for frown lines, indentations across the forehead, furrows leading from nostrils to lip ends.

Tissues around the eyes are treated with delicate smoothing and tapping motions.

Sometimes the eyes are covered with gauze pads that have been dipped in a refreshing liquid and the therapeutic lamp is turned on. Thus the oil penetrates the skin, bringing a smooth, satiny surface.

There is more tapping, than an ironing with ice, after which the cream is removed and an astringent is applied.

Make-up is the cream on the beauty cake and the way the expert applies it excites admiration. Powder is fluffed on lightly, rouge molded in with the finger tips. Eyebrows are groomed with brilliantine, eyelashes given a gloss. The lipstick is used with skill. There you are. Ready for the party, r'aring to do.

The secret of smooth creamy custard lies in its baking. Pour the custard mixture into glass or earthenware cups and set them in a pan that is two-thirds filled with hot, but not boiling, water. Bake in a moderately slow oven that registers about 325 degrees. Custards are done when they shake a little in the center. Overcooking them or baking them in an oven that is too hot will produce a coarse-grained watery custard.

Grease spots may be removed from tan shoes with gasoline. Wet sponge with gasoline (keep away from fire), rub over spots, dry and polish.

Thrifty Menus Fill Bill

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

THESE RECIPES are all thrifty affairs, but thrifty only in cost. They are all delicious dishes which you can proudly set before the family or guests. Lamb Stew Oriental measures up to all these requirements, and is well worth the time and effort its preparation entails. Stewed Lamb requires 1¼ pounds lamb riblets (lamb breast cut into strips), 2 teaspoons salt. Remove excess fat from Lamb. Cover with water and simmer for 2 hours. Remove lamb from broth, cool slightly and remove excess fat by adding several ice cubes so that fat will harden round the cubes. When hardened remove cubes and fat. The rice ring requires 2 cups rice, 3½ cups water and if desired ½ teaspoon saffron.

If saffron is used boil it in the water and then strain out before adding rice. After thoroughly washing and draining rice, add to the water in a heavy saucepan or top of double boiler and cook for 40 minutes or until all water has been absorbed. Pack into well greased 9-inch ring mold and allow to stand in a warm place for 30 minutes or bake in 375 F. oven 10 minutes before unmolding. Place lamb stew in center of border. Then comes the sauce which gives its name to the dish. This requires ¼ cup butter, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons curry powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, one tablespoon flour, 2 cups lamb broth, ½ cup cocoanut (shredded), one cup milk, ¼ teaspoon ginger, teaspoon currant jelly. Melt butter in saucepan and cook onion in it for 2 minutes. Mix curry powder, salt, flour and ginger, then add to butter-onion mixture. Blend well, then add cocoanut milk (made by soaking ½ cup cocoanut in one cup milk) and the lamb broth very gradually, stirring all the time.

Cook slowly for 25 minutes to thicken the sauce. Just before serving, add curant jelly and allow to melt. Serve sauce in separate sauce dish and spread generously over lamb filled rice ring.

Lamb Patties.

Lamb Patties Hawaiian is another delightful dish that belies its reasonable cost. Lamb ground from the shank, 4 slices bacon, 4 pineapple slices, salt and pepper will serve four. Cut meat from shank and grind, seasoning with salt and pepper. Form into thin flat patties and place each on a pineapple slice. Wrap a slice of bacon over each patty and broil slowly about 9 inches under boiler. When brown, turn and quickly broil the bacon on the under side. Serve on a chop plate with broiled tomatoes that have been sprinkled with buttered bread crumbs.

Peach Surprise Pie requires for the pie, one pastry shell, 2 cups sliced peaches (fresh or canned), ¼ cup sugar, one pint peach ice cream, and for the meringue, 3 eggs, 6 tablespoon sugar, teaspoon each salt and lemon juice. Serves 6. Slice peaches (if fresh are used) and sprinkle with drops of lemon juice to prevent them from darkening. Add ¼ cup sugar and allow to stand 30 minutes before using. If canned peaches are used, omit sugar and juice. Place a layer of peaches into pie shell, cover with ice cream, add more peaches and top with meringue. Place in 500 F oven 3 or 4 minutes. Serve at once. Meringue is made by beating egg whites with rotary beater till foamy, add lemon juice and salt. Continue beating till thick, then add sugar, 2 tablespoons at the time. Beat till meringue mixture will hold its shape.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHICH SUIT TO PLAY

TWO SUITS MAY be available to build up the extra trick or tricks needed to make your no trump game. Other factors being equal, go after the longer suit.

But if one of those suits contains high cards which are so placed that they constitute entries for the other suit, it is usually better to play for that other suit. You are not so likely then to find yourself with some winners established which you can use because you have no way to get at them.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

South opened the bidding here with 1-Club. North responded with 1-Diamond. South bid 1-Heart, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-No trump and North 3 No-trump. Not liking to lead into South's clubs or North's diamonds, and also disliking a lead away from his king into the spades indicated by South's no trumper, West chose the heart J as his lead.

After the heart A won the first trick, South decided to go right after his diamonds. He led to the club A to finesse the diamond 10, which lost to the K. Back came a heart to the K, then two diamonds, a losing spade finesse, a heart to the Q, the spade A which luckily dropped the Q; the spade 10 and the Club K, two clubs then being conceded.

Playing that way Soouth needed a lot of luck to barely make game. If either the spade K or diamond J had laid differently, he would have been set.

He had a safer plan, however. After the heart A, finesse the spade J to the K. Following a heart return, try laying down the spade A, then the 10. This would have established the 9, no matter how the diamond broke.

Since the spade Q would fall, then after the 10, lead the diamond and let the 10 lose to the K. The heart Q would win the return, then would come two diamond tricks, the spade 9 and two clubs, making an overtrick because the spade 9 was set up in plenty of time—a reward for sound planning.

PRESENT 3-ACT PLAY MARCH 16 AT SENIOR HIGH

Student Thespians to Stage 'Lavender and Old Lace'; New Operetta Planned.

The Red Masque club, dramatic group of Senior high school, will present "Lavender and Old Lace," a three-act comedy-drama, as its second play of the present school year, Earl L. Heasley, school dramatic instructor, announced today.

The play will be given March 16 in the high school auditorium by a cast of 10 students, four boys and six girls. Selecting of the cast is expected to be completed next week by Heasley.

Tryouts for membership in the club were held today and will continue through Thursday. Any student in the school is eligible to tryout for the club.

The second operetta of the school year will be staged by the vocal music department of Senior high school in March, A. L. Derr, director of vocal music, announced today.

"Bluebeard," a one-act light operetta, has been selected as the second production by the music students. The cast will include 10 girls and three boys.

The lead role of Bluebeard will be taken by Willis Wygant, who had one of the major parts in the operetta "In Old Vienna" two weeks ago. The other two boys who will have roles in the production are Gene Gump and James Hart. Javetta Bookmyer who also had a part in "In Old Vienna" will head the cast of 10 girls. The others will be selected later.

Only one performance will be given, Derr said.

Class Plans Benefit Show.

A committee of 10 members of 11-A class was named today by Steve Karnavas, class president, to plan for a benefit show for the class which will be staged either in the high school auditorium or at one of the downtown theaters, and will consist of acts from within the class.

The committee includes Ed Art, Charles Bates, Bruce Coleman, Marian Birch, Fred Lavender, Gene Lantz, Mariam Jenkins, Betty Bell, Josephine Hughes, Walter Mayer, and the class officers, Karnavas, president; Marjorie Boals, vice president; Janet Werner, secretary, and Eldon Sneeringer, treasurer.

Talks to Students

Prof. John Harvey Furbay of Yale university, above, will address students of Senior high school at two assemblies tomorrow in the school auditorium. In the morning he addresses members of the 12-B and 12-A classes on "Characteristics of Collegiate Institutions," and at 1:45 p. m. talks to the entire student body on "Liberia—Africa's Last Negro State."

John Harvey Furbay of Yale university, will address students of Senior high school tomorrow during two special assemblies. In the morning Prof. Furbay will speak to senior students and at 1:45 p. m. will address students of other classes.

Prof. Furbay will discuss "Liberia, Africa's Last Negro State." His talk will be illustrated with the first comprehensive motion pictures ever taken in the republic. Prof. Furbay spent several years in Liberia, Africa's last Negro state.

4 Killed, 6 Burned In Cleveland Rooming House Blaze

16 FORCED TO FLEE; MOTHER, CHILDREN DIE

Flames Trap 6 Occupants on Second Floor of Building; Cause Mystery.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — Four persons were burned to death today when fire swept a rooming house on Cleveland's west side.

Two persons were taken to City hospital with serious burns, and 16 others were forced to flee in their nightclothes. Six of those who escaped were carried from the house by firemen.

Those burned to death were a mother and her two children and a 17-year-old boy.

The mother, identified as Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, and one of her sons, Junior, 2, were still alive when firemen reached them, but died shortly after being taken to City hospital. The other child, Everett Smith, 5, and the youth, who was unidentified, were dead when firemen found their bodies.

Taken To Hospital.

Five others taken to City hospital were Steve Toth, second and third degree burns; Esther Stanton, burns; John Volk, lacerations; Dorothy Brand, lacerations, and Benjamin Brand, burns.

When firemen arrived at the scene, they found the second floor in flames and six occupants of the house trapped on a second floor porch from which they were carried on ladders.

The unidentified boy and the mother and her two sons were found by firemen in their second floor rooms where they apparently had been trapped by the flames. Fire officials said they believed the fire started near Mrs. Smith's room, but were not able to determine the cause immediately.

Damage was estimated at $2,500.

The building, a large old frame residence at 3343 West 25th street, had been converted to rooming house purposes. It was not badly damaged, most of the flames being confined to the second floor, where Mrs. Smith, her children and the youth were trapped by the rapidly spreading blaze.

Fire department officials started an investigation immediately.

Farm Boy, Champ Corn Grower, Wins Praise From House

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A frail-looking bespectacled Fayette county farm boy stood before the house of representatives yesterday and was applauded as a champion.

The boy, Frank E. Coe, 19, a graduate of Jeffersonville high school in vocational education, had just been acclaimed the champion for his exhibit of the best 10 ears of clarage corn at farmers' week at Ohio State university.

That, however, was only another honor for him. He was the sweep-stakes winner in the clarage corn exhibit at the Ohio State fair last year and twice had won the Eichelberger cup for his displays.

Coe was introduced to the lawmakers by Speaker William M. McCulloch as "one who is not a talker but a doer."

WOMAN, 67, DIES IN LEXINGTON

Mrs. Ella MacDonald Was Native of Richland Community.

LEXINGTON — Mrs. Ella Hill MacDonald, 67, died at her home here early today following an extended illness.

A native of Lexington, she had spent most of her life here, and had been an active member of the Presbyterian church.

Surviving are a daughter, Gladys, and a sister, Miss Carrie Hill, at home, and a brother, George F. Hill, Bellville. Her husband, David, preceded her in death 32 years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Presbyterian church with Rev. Glenn McKinley Sauder and Rev. Hiram Thompson, of Lakewood, former Lexington pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

Up and Down THE STREET

It invariably happens in a large crowd — we mean, a couple of people always get the wrong overcoats. It happened last night at the Marian Anderson concert to James M. (Empire) Hill and Joy A. (OPS) Herbert. Herbert discovered first that he had the wrong coat from keys and a driver's license in the pocket. The license provided the necessary clue that led to the exchange of coats.

No one chuckled any more than Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of First Presbyterian church and president of the Civic Music association, at his "fox pass" last night at the Anderson recital. When the downstairs was filled, someone suggested to Roller that chairs be placed in front of the seats. A heavy-set man had been wandering around through the corridors and Roller, thinking he was the custodian, asked him to help take the chairs down into the auditorium. While placing the chairs the man suddenly looked up and said with a heavy German accent: "Get somevone else to place de chairs. I am not de janitor—I am Miss Anderson's secretary und business manager!"

4 CARS COLLIDE

Two Suffer Minor Injuries in Accident Near Ontario.

A Mansfield man and a Crestline youth suffered injuries in a four-car collision, one and a half miles west of Ontario on U. S. Route 30-S, at 7:40 p. m. Tuesday.

Dale Paynter, 17, of Crestline, received scalp lacerations when an automobile he was driving, accompanied by four other Crestline youths, and a car owned by Herman Spurck of Galion, collided west of Ontario, Coporal J. E. Ruch of the highway patrol said.

Following the accident, Paynter's care was struck by a machine driven by William Kearns, Woodhill road, which then crashed head-on with an auto driven by Dr. Milton Axthelm of Caledonia, Corporal Ruch reported. Kearns and Dr. Axthelm suffered minor bruises, Ruch said.

Riding with Paynter were Lewis Meyers, Glenn Rodrich, Richard Sprang and Llewellyn Page, all of Crestline.

$105,500 IN TAX FUNDS ASSURED

County to Know Definitely Its Share of Sales Tax Under New State Plan.

Richland county today was assured of at least $105,500 in state sales tax funds for local government expenses this year under a new distribution plan set up by the state legislature.

The amount represents an increase of $9.300 over the state tax funds the county and its subdivisions received in 1938, but it is considerably under receipts for 1937.

The plan of allocating a specific amount to each county will eliminate much of the uncertainty in planning operating budgets, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck pointed out.

Beck was unable to say how much Mansfield and other local government units in the county will receive from the total allocation.

In the past, the county's allocations have been determined by the amount of sales tax receipts for the year, with wide fluctuations possible.

Cities and villages in the county were hard pressed for operating funds last year because the sales tax allocations dropped to $96,205, a 30 per cent decrease from the 1937 distribution.

In the entire state $12,000,000 will be available from sales tax receipts for local government in 1939, which is approximately $1,100,000 more than the counties got last year. Surplus sales tax receipts will go into the state's general revenue fund.

RITES THURSDAY

Richard Herr, 18, Taken by Death In New Washington Home.

NEW WASHINGTON — Funeral services for Richard Herr, 18, who died Tuesday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Herr, four miles north of here, will be held at the home at 1:30 p. m. Thursday and at the St. John Lutheran church at 2 p. m., with Rev. John Doescher officiating. Burial will be in the Lutheran cemetery. The survivors include a brother, Paul.

Born in Venice township, Mr. Herr was a member of the Attica High school graduating class of 1938.

PROF. DEFENDS WAGNER ACT AS 'FOUNDATION OF LABOR PEACE'

Upholding the Wagner act as "the foundation of industrial peace," Dr. Robert R. R. Brooks of Williams college, told 200 persons at Delano lodge hall last night that he could see no possible reason for changing it or the way it is being administered.

An author of several books on labor and an active campaigner for the cause of labor, Dr. Brooks spoke here under the auspices of the steel workers union.

He changed his subject from "Labor On New Fronts," the title of his new book and his original topic, to "The Wagner Act," because the latter was more timely, he said.

The Wagner act should not be amended nor should there be any changes in its administration because it recognizes the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively, which is the basis of a lasting industrial peace, Dr. Brooks asserted.

He charged that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor sought sweeping revisions in the act that would cost the A. F. of L. "at least half it its membership, just because one man presisted in dominating the organization."

"The question now," Dr. Brooks said, "is if the NLRB gives in, will that act as an opening wedge that will lead to an onslaught to drastic revisions to the rest of the act. Will it whet the appetite of the enemy so that they will seek further amendments, or will it satisfy those who are seeking the changes?

"Regardless of the answer, the board has decided to stand pat."

Dr. Brooks pointed out that changes in the act now being sought would make the act serve interests opposed to labor, instead of protecting the rights of wage earners to organize.

"The chief change sought would place elections for sole collective bargaining on a craft basis instead of a plant-wide industrial basis," hes aid.

Dr. Brooks lauded the administration of the act by the NLRB, stating that "95 per cent of the cases that go to the board are settled without any formal action being instituted."

"These are the ones that the public never hears about. They only hear of the other five per cent of bitterly fought cases that have been publicized."

TOKYO PONDERS

Government Studies Proposal to Make War 'Official.'

TOKYO —(U.P.)— Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita disclosed today that "government circles" were considering a formal declaration of war against China which would entail suspension of extra-territorial rights of foreign powers in China.

The term "government circles" was interpreted to mean that actual sections of the government, presumably army men, were considering the advisability of a war declaration.

In parliament, Arita said.

"Recently a more drastic attitude has been advocated among government circles, which are urging that a frank proclamation that a state of war exists (in China.) Under a state of war military action preclude extra-territorial and other rights and interests of foreign powers."

SERVICES SET

Aunt of Five Mansfield Women Taken By Death at 82.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Mt. Eaton Evangelical church for Mrs. Mary Sommer, 82, aunt of five Mansfield residents, who died Tuesday morning at her home in Mt. Eaton, near Wooster, following a heart ailment. Burial will be in the Mt. Eaton cemetery.

Mrs. Sommer was born June 26, 1856, near Fredericksburg, O., and is the widow of Charles Sommer.

Surviving are five nieces and nephews in Mansfield, Miss Emma Beer, William J. Beer, Charles B. Beer, Mrs. L. H. Porch and Mrs. J. H. Miller; a niece, Miss Mildred Myer of near Mt. Eaton, and a brother, William Myer of Mt. Eaton.

COMMITTEE TO ASK ALTMEYER TO AIR VIEWS

House Group Studies Proposal to Speed Pension Payments, Give Aid to Widows.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS — Expansion of the old-age system of the Social Security Act to extend benefits of another 6,000,000 persons, was urged before the house ways and means committee today by Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security board.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Expansion of the social security system was added today to the list of administration proposals on which congress actively is getting down to work.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, head of the social security board, was called as the first witness at hearings before the house ways and means committee. He was asked to discuss in detail the administration recommendations for:

1. Liberalizing and speeding up old age insurance payments.
2. Extending old age insurance to several million more workers.
3. Providing for disability insurance and for aid to widows and orphans.

Open To Townsend.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said the hearings would be open not only to social security advocates but also to old age pension proponents. Chief among the latter are Dr. Francis E. Townsend, originator of the $200-a-month pension plan, and officials of the general welfare association.

Meanwhile the social security hearings were getting under way, the house itself was called on to decide whether a special committee to study government reorganization should be renemed at this session.

Rep. Warern (D-NC) announced he would submit to the rules committee a new bill to reorganize federal agencies. He declared it would meet all the objections which caused the legislation to be shelved last year.

In the senate, committees were called into session to consider a "cost of production" farm plan and the president's attempt to revive the Florida ship canal and the Passamaquoddy power project.

The senate judiciary committee was confronted with an intra-party fight over confirmation of Floyd Roberts, appointed a federal judge in Virginia over the objections of the state's senators.

The $725,000,000 relief bill was before the house for final action, with only the question of WPA wage differentials remaining to be settled. The house originally limited regional differentials to 25 per cent, but this provision was rejected by the senate.

A senate-house committee decided yesterday to let the house reconsider the subject. A compromise was expected.

45,000 MORE

U. S. Order Puts New Employes Under Civil Service.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Approximately 45,000 federal employes received civil service status today under the most far-reaching order in civil service history.

The additions meant that approximately 610,000 of the 865,000 employes of the executive branch of the government now are under civil service. Employes added to the merit list were scattered among the various departments, mostly in Washington. Virtually the entire personnel of the federal deposit insurance corporation was affected.

The employes were blanketed into civil service under President Roosevelt's executive order June 24 which placed under merit rule all but policy-making employes and those specifically exempted from civil service. The order became effective today.

CIVIL WAR VET DIES

SANDUSKY—(AP)—Erie county's list of Civil war veterans was reduced today by the death of Henry E. Dwight, 93.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Comes to Defense of 'Most' Columnists in Their Reviews of Plays

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Sidney Whipple, the World-Telegram's play reviewer, complains that most columnists, being, so he says, special pleaders, don't dare step out of character and review a play objectively, but carry prejudice into the theater and judge the plays of which they write by political rather than artistic standards.

*

In using the term "most columnists," he has blown himself a smoke ring and is trying to do tricks on it, because "most columnists" seldom write about current shows.

* * *

But if he will put it that radicals of both extremes, left and right, are alike in their intolerance and brattish nastiness when crossed, I will go along with him. The temper of which he speaks is apparent not only in comments on plays but in reviews of books and discussions of political persons and events, and it takes very little reading in the Communist press to discover that there is Goebbels blood in all bigots.

The Nazi minister of public enlightenment would forbid a play offensive to his principles on the ground of untruth and his conception of the national interest, and we have groups in this country who would do the same, although there are no writers of any prominence who speak for the extreme right. But we do have writers on the far left in both the Communist and standard American press who share the Nazi belief that the first test should be whether the play, book or speech conforms to the party line, at whatever damage to art, truth or freedom.

* * *

This is not strange, considering that Fascism was copied from Communism and that Naziism is hopped-up Fascism. Neither is it surprising that writings which please or even present without feeling familiar American sentiments and neglect to flog Nazi-Fascist opponents of the great Russian experiment in human betterment are treated with scorn by critics impatient for the day when the same experiment will be tried here.

Sidney should have remembered the reactions of the Communists and their fellow-travelers to the early operations of the Dies committee. This committee showed great promise at first when it was poking around in the affairs of world Naziism, but as soon as it turned to similar operations by the Communist conspiracy it was denounced as an enemy of American liberty and a tool of the Fascists.

* * *

It goes without saying that neither a Communist nor a Fascist would enjoy or approve a play or book dealing pleasantly with the familiar and cherished institutions, memories and habits of the American nation.

But any work depicting the United States as a land of squalor and the home of the exploited would be given respectful, probably very sympathetic, treatment, and the most praiseworthy note in the play "Abraham Lincoln In Illinois" in the ears of the Communists is that in which Lincoln observes that the people have the right to change their form of government at any time. Thus, Lincoln is discovered as an advocate of violent revolution, directed from Moscow, firing squads, the deportation of the American farmer to some American Siberia at the order of the commissar in Washington, and the massacre of those who own their homes or wish they could.

All Communist and Nazi-Fascist reviews of books, plays, legislative proposals and speeches are determined in advance, like the verdicts of Russia, German and Italian courts, but I think Sidney will allow that few commentators in the standard American press are devoted to either extreme.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Safari . . . Romance . . . Orchids in the African moonlight . . . The itsy-bitsy, cute little tigers and rhinos and cobras and tsetse-flies . . . Romance! And when do we eat?

Well, said Osa Johnson, who from now on is my quotable expert on jungle housewifery, the important thing is that we do eat. And American husbands who live too close for comfort to delicatessens and the can-opener may find Mrs. Martin Johnson highly quotable also. Sample monolog for the American husband:

"Good morning, m'dear! You look a sight. Now Mrs. Martin Johnson—d'ye know that even in darkest Africa that little glammer gal doesn't let herself go the way you're doing, and you not ten blocks from a beauty parlor?

"Why only today I was reading in the paper where some guy named Coons in Hollywood was talking to her—and gosh, was he smitten? He says the little woman can out-glam most of the movie queens. Cute as a bug—but a lot prettier, he says. He says she looked—seems he had lunch with her at the Town House—as if she'd never been closer to a jungle than Metro's back lot and Ape-Man Tarzan Weissmuller. None of that leathery look—sort of bien soignee (the guy will use funny expressions—wonder if he knows the meaning?) and Fifth Avenue.

* * *

"BUT what I was getting to was the way this Osa fixes up a meal. Six months from now she's going off again to take movies in another part of Africa, and she's doing her marketing. You, m'dear, wonder whatinhell we're going to eat tonight, but Osa now—why, that little girl does her marketing by the ton.

"She's already started. Buys tins of milk, fruit, juices, vegetables, corned beef—ships it to Nairobi, which seems to be the jumping-off place. That's where she picks up her porters—anywhere from 200 to 250 black boys — and you, m'dear, think I get hungry and cranky. Of course, those boys live on game and corn meal mush—that's all they like—but friend Osa has to see they're fed.

"And how would you like it, my pampered darling, if you had to cook baking-powder biscuits for a crew like that? Osa did—what a girl! And you talk about system—when you keep a dozen eggs and a pound of butter in the electric ice box. Osa now—she packs her eggs by the crate, in sawdust in felt-lined boxes, and keeps 'em fresh four months.

* * *

"AND she makes a real home there, off in the wild where gasoline is 75 cents a gallon and you can't telephone when you've forgotten the peas. Speaking of peas—that girl takes along seeds and grows her own fresh vegetables and when she's in one spot a few weeks. Radishes in 12 days!

"And say—you know what! Coons say this Osa is the first African explorer he ever met who didn't spring that line about the jungle being safer than a city street . . . Bet she feels that way, just the same . . . In the past 25 years she's spent only three in what we laughingly call civilization . . . M'dear! What are you DOING with that axe? Why, darling, what've I SAID?"

MOOSE CONTEST CAPTAINS NAMED

Four to Head Campaign For New Lodge Memberships.

Captains of teams to compete in the membership campaign of the Mansfield lodge, 341, Loyal Order of Moose, were appointed by Arthur E. Hilborn, dictator at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

The captains are John Carr, Neil Ruhl, Firth Griffith and Peter Grohol. The campaign, which was launched today, will end April 30, Hilborn said.

Hilborn also announced the appointment of Ira Ohler, Paul Ritchie and Farrell Hipp to the house committee, D. D. Renner, chairman of the bowling committee, and Arthur Laird, chairman of the activities committee. An oyster supper was served after the meeting.

DIES OF BURNS

SALEM—(AP)—Miss Sue Felshaw, 64, died in a hospital today of burns suffered at her home last night. Charles Vincent noticed fire in the house when he passed and found Miss Felshaw's clothing in flames when he entered.

BELLEVUE AGAIN 'AWARDED' DISTRICT TITLE BY EXPERTS IN THIS VICINITY.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sport Editor.

AGAIN this season Mansfield is not rated as highly as several other entries in the forthcoming district basketball tournament.

The Tygers may spring another surprise, the experts in the other end of the district agree. But they do not associate Mr. Murphy's young men with the championship.

Murphy can be thankful. Guiding a pre-tournament favorite is not an easy assignment, and the Tyger coach would rather have the experts frown on the Tygers than make them "paper" champions.

As Mansfield won the district crown last season as a "dark horse" with virtually the same lineup as this year, it is difficult to explain how the Tygers can be denied any recognition in the reckoning.

But if that is the way the experts want to have it, Murphy is not going to protest.

Murphy, undoubtedly, would just as soon win under the same conditions as last spring when the Tygers weren't given a Chinaman's chance to cop the gonfalon.

It seems that Bellevue's victory over the Tygers the other evening decided the district title for some of the authorities. Bellevue boasts of one of the strongest clubs the Tygers have engaged this season, but it is rather early to decorate the brows of the Redmen with crowns before the tournament gets under way.

Bellevue, in case you've forgotton, was the pre-tournament favorite last year, but failed to last with the Tygers.

Despite the defeat of Sandusky by Mansfield, the Blue Streaks are regarded more seriously than the Tygers. Of course, this is debatable, but with the advantage of their own court, the Blue Streaks must be classified as threats.

Mind you, this department is not making an attempt to boost the Tygers' tournament stock. Mansfield faces a tough foe in the first game with Port Clinton, and the result of this melee will merely determine the favorite in the upper bracket. But as defending champions, the Tyers should deserve some respect.

However, if they refuse to consider the Tygers, it might be a wise thing for the experts to delay installation of their successor until Sandusky tournament time, at least.

What transpired in the tournament last year has not lingered long in their memory, it seems.

Injury Keeps Glover Out of Tournament.

A TRAINING injury kept Beauford Glover out of the Cleveland Golden Gloves. . . . Earle Fatkin, former Mansfield high athlete, has broken Wooster college's 50-yard free style swimming mark three times this season. His best time is 25.7 seconds. . . . A "cinch" spare developed in a recent league match in Port Clinton when two pins remained upright, leaning against each other on the alley. . . . Harry Elk of Duluth, Minn., is credited with the shortest name in bowling records. The other extrme is John Mahczewskinovitch, whose name appeared in the 1938 A. B. C. records. . . . Shelby high cagers have won only two games this season, and it is being called a cheap victory by followers of the Mt. Vernon Jackets, the victims. Down in Mt. Vernon, Shelby's victory is attributed to temperamental lights, which, it seems, went out whenever the Jackets had the ball. The game was played at Shelby, as you might suspect. Whippet officials blame it all on weakened fuses.

Do Away With 'Ref'

Cordiano of Cleveland East Tech, left, raises his arm to call a foul on himself against Thompson of John Hay.

PLAYERS call fouls on themselves. Coaches sit alone and watch. Spectators howl louder than ever.

It's "student-control" basketball as played in Cleveland high schools

Games proceed under regular rules except that there are no officials. When a participant commits a foul he raises his hand, halting play. Captains call violations by teammates. But in no instance may one opponent penalize the other. The whole thing is strictly "honor-bright."

In one sense is there outside regulation. A non-participant makes sure the ball is kept in bounds and watches for such technical violations as failure to advance the ball from backcourt to forecourt in the prescribed 10 seconds. A man on the sidelines also blows a whistle to stop play when a player calls a foul on himself.

Captains are strictly on their own in making substitutions, calling for timeouts and running their teams. Coaches' duties end when games begin.

Such startling innovations could be attempted only by an expert. He is Floyd Rowe, a member of the national basketball rules committee, who directs physical welfare activities for the Cleveland school system.

Rowe induced six high schools to try out his "brain-child" on an experimental basis at the start of the season. It was unpopular at first. Coaches were incredulous. Now they are less pessimistic. Rowe expects his game to spread to every public school in the city next year.

Chuckovits Beats Frascella's Record

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Although Toledo university lost to George Washington university last night, Toledo's ace, Chuck Chuckovits, established a new scoring record among Ohio college basketball players. George Washington won, 46 to 29.

Chuckovits made 18 points on six field goals and six free throws. That brought his total scoring for the season to 251 points and his total for three seasons to 991 points. Nick Frascella, former Wooster college basketball player, held the previous Ohio scoring record, with 988 points for his three years of competition. Frascella graduated a year ago.

Chuckovits still has 12 games to play before his college basketball career is over.

First M. E. Cager Leads 'A' Scorers

The individual scoring champion of the first half of the Church Class A league is Fogle of First M. E., who scored 24 baskets and nine free throws for a total of 57 points. Miles of Mayflower is second high with 45 points.

Eight Have Perfect Scores In Kentucky Derby Contest

MANSFIELDERS know just about all there is to know about the Kentucky Derby.

This was revealed in The News-Journal-Ohio theater Kentucky Derby contest, which was staged in conjunction with the current showing of "Kentucky," a race horse film, at the theater.

All 16 questions were answered correctly on eight entries, and only one question was missed on nine others. A number of contestants missed only two questions.

A pair of tickets for the Ohio theater will be issued to each person who answered all the questions correctly and those who missed only one. Tickets can be called for at the business office of The News-Journal.

Those who came through with perfect scores in the contest are: T. C. Friedenheimer, 180½ Park avenue west; Mrs. W. H. Danford, route 5; Ben Alacca, 275 Park avenue east; John Mahon, 123 Blymyer avenue; Cyril D. Burgess, 17 Burnese avenue; Laura Snyder, East Prospect street; Emerson R. Burgess, 17 Burnese avenue. Mrs. H. C. Brune, 464 Cline avenue.

Ticket winners who missed only one question are R. W. Parsons, 38 Dawson avenue, Ardell Gates, 74 Park avenue west; A. J. Roth, 16 South Main street; Bob Gossom, 41½ South Diamond street; Margaret Aubrey, Park avenue west road; Charles B. Piatt, 590 Springmill street; William B. Beam, 877 Park avenue west; A. B. Bartlett, 588 Springmill street; George Burgess, 26 South Main street.

Hehe are the answers to the questions

1. In what year was the first Kentucky Derby run? (1875).
2. Does the winner's share of the purse ever vary? (Yes)
3. Did War Admiral ever win a Derby? (Yes, in 1937).
4. Did Sea Biscuit ever win a Derby? (No, he never ran).
5. Where is the Derby held? (Louisville, Ky.).
6. What horse ran in the fastest time? (Twenty Grand in 1931).
7. What is the length of the race? (1¼ miles).
8. What is the nickname of the district where the Derby is run? (The Blue Grass section).
9. How old are the horses entered in the Derby? (3 years).
10. What was the name of the first Derby winner? (Aristedes)
11. Did Man of War ever win a Derby? (No).
12. How long is a furlong? (⅛ of a mile, or 660 feet).
13. What horse won the last (1938) Derby? (Lawrin).
14. Has the length of the race always been the same? (No, changed in 1896 from 1½ to 1¼ miles)
15. Was Cavalcade, 1934 Derby winner, an American or foreign-bred horse. (American-bred. Under racing regulations, a horse is regarded foaled in the country where it first touches earth and not where he might have been conceived. Cavalcade was foaled in New Jersey.)
16. What was the least number of horses ever to start in a Derby? (3. in 1892, 1899 and 1905).

BRONKO ADDS WIN

NEWARK, N. J.—Bronko Nagurski, 230, International Falls, Minn., defeated Bibber McCoy, 237, Boston, two out of three falls.

Register Now for Pinfest

NOW'S the time to register for The News-Journal Individual Sweepstakes which will get under way at the Meder Recreation alleys at 3 p. m. Saturday.

It is not compulsory to enter before the tournament, as explained previously, but bowlers requesting particular shifts are urged to register immediately.

Those signing up at the Meder alleys before the tournament will be assured of competing when they desire. Those not reserving shifts will be forced to bowl when places are vacant.

Remember, only 16 bowlers can bowl on one shift, and the time necessary to complete a shift is approximately one hour and a half.

League bowlers wishing to bowl in groups are particularly requested to reserve alleys.

No fees must be paid until the time of bowling, and the cost, as you know, is only $1, with 20 cents of this amount going into the prize fund.

The News-Journal guarantees the first prizes in the tournament, which requires each bowler to roll four games across eight alleys. The alleys in the men's division are 1 to 8, inclusive. Women's shifts will be bowled on the lower alleys.

First prize in the men's division is $25, with $10 being awarded to the women's champion.

The tournament is being conducted on a handicap basis, with the championships being determined on the number of pins the contestants roll over their average.

O.S.R. Gains Early Lead But Loses

Although leading 10 to 0 at the end of the first period, the reformatory courtmen bowed to Kirkpatrick, 42 to 24, at the institution yesterday.

The visitors scored 16 points in the second quarter to hold a 16 to 13 advantage at the half, and the inmates never led again. The inmates were limited to 14 points after the first period. Beers, with 15 points, led Kirkpatrick.

Rams Win Over Crestline, 36-20

Whippets Win Second Victory of Season Over Willard; Bulldogs Turn Back Galena.

MADISON high cagers made it two straight over the Onondagas of Crestline, leaders in the League of Six Nations, on the Rams' hardwood last night when they turned back the visitors, 36 to 20, and the margin was virtually the same as in the first meeting between the two quintets this season.

The Rams, who showed only ordinary ability in losing to Loudonville Saturday, turned in one of their better performances last night.

Coach Al Fendrick's men not only had their eye on the bucket, but handled the leather like professionals. Their passing was one of the highlights of the game which drew a capacity crowd.

There never was any question about the outcome of the tussle after the intermission. The Rams hoisted themselves into a 10 to 5 lead in the first period, and, limiting the visitors to only two points in the second quarter, led by a 20 to 7 margin at the half.

The Rams turned in a scoring oddity when they added 10 points in each of the first three periods, leading 30 to 13 going into the final frame.

Coach Fendrick put in a squad of reserves in the last period, and it permitted the invaders to reduce the margin piled up by the first-stringers by only one point.

Joe Miller and Bill Wilkins, who scored 13 and 11 points, respectively, were high men for the Rams, whose record now shows 11 victories in 14 games. Harrison tallied 12 points for Crestline.

In the preliminary game, the Madison reserves outpointed Crestline, 14 to 12.

Butler Hangs Up Easy Victory.

BUTLER—Coach Bob Burgett's Bulldogs of Butler high school coasted to one of their easiest victories of the season on the home court last night when they walloped Galena, 52 to 17.

The Butlerites scored 18 times from the field and caged 16 shots from the free throw line to administer the worst defeat suffered by the visitors this season.

Wendall Ward and Kenny Miller were outstanding for the Bulldogs in the easy triumph, scoring 21 and 17 points, respectively. Ward's total included nine baskets and three free throws.

Limiting Galena to a free throw, Butler jumped into a 20 to 1 lead in the opening period. Burgett inserted reserves into the fray in the second quarter, but the Bulldogs still held a 23 to 9 advantage at the intermission.

With the first-string lineup again operating, Butler extended its lead to 38 to 14 in the third period. The Bulldogs added insult to injury in the fourth quarter when they outscored Galena, 14 to 3.

L. Smith and Hartsook, with seven and six points, respectively, were high for the Galena cagemen.

In the preliminary tilt, Butler took the measure of the Galena reserves, 14 to 3.

CHAPTER XIV.

Later Alix called Bernice's number and waited several agonizing minutes while the operator rang. A false friend! What a stinging accusation!

The maid answered. Alix said, "I'd like to speak to Mrs. Lawrance, please. It's very important."

Mrs. Lawrence is not at home to any one," the words came back, curtly.

Tuck read the letter that night and said: "Alix, I'll bet my new house that there's more to this than what two girls in your office made up. There's something at the bottom of this gossip that you're going to marry your boss that you haven't heard."

"Bernice won't talk to me. Nancy and Don are away. A false friend, Tuck! I've never been called anything so vile as that. And it isn't true! It isn't true!

Since Don was out of town, Alix stayed away from the office for three days helping Tuck to move anl also to move her own few things into the ugly furnished room. For the first time Tuck, infatuated with her house and eagerly planning for it, failed to understand Alix's feelings.

* * *

Spending two nights in the house by the river, Alix heard the soft ripple of the water as it met the sandy shore. She felt deathly tired but could not sleep. To live apart from Tuck in the miserable little room seemed almost unendurable; Nancy's accusation haunted her; anxiety over Tod never lessened.

Later she attributed her illness to complete physical and mental exhaustion. The following morning when she awoke in her room she was too ill to get up even after the landlady's repeated warnings about the time. Finally she managed to get to the hall and called a doctor. He came after office hours and found her feverish and exhausted.

"You've been trying to do too much," he said, stroking her damp hair back from her hot forehead.

She saw him in a blur, a large man with brown eyes and white hair. She saw the gaunt figure of Mrs. Bishop, too, her dark eyes beneath the heavy black brows angry at the inconvenience of having a person ill in her house.

* * *

For five days she saw the doctor, Mrs. Bishop and the timid little maid through feverish eyes. When the faces were becoming more distinct, the doctor said, "You told us all your secrets, Alix. But not very clearly. You just muttered names." With his fingers on her pulse he smiled at her kindly. "One of the young men about whom you spoke in your delirium has been here at least twice a day, asking for you."

Mrs. Bishop's thin lips broke into smile. "He said to tell you that Eddie asked for you."

"You've been very kind," Alix said. "All of you. Am I all right now, doctor?"

"If you mean all right to go to work, no. You're much too weak. You need rest, sunshine, and wholesome food."

Eddie was permitted to see her that night. He came in carring a bouquet of roses. His faithfulness and his concern for her made her want to cry.

"What'll I do with these?" he asked.

"There's a vase on the desk."

He pulled up a chair beside the bed.

"How do I look, Eddie?"

"Not so good."

"Thanks for being honest. For five days I've been out of the world. How is the world, by the way?"

How is Kurt, she wondered?

"I've been playing dumb and telling people I didn't know where you were. I thought they'd just worry you. Sally and Don and Kurt called me and I told them I didn't know. I knew old Dragon Face wouldn't let them in anyway."

"It doesn't metter. I don't think I want to see any one. Has Nancy come back?"

"Not yet."

She looked away from him. "The doctor tells me I'll have to go away for awhile. Two weeks should make me strong again. Two weeks with Tuck. I'd like for you to drive me down tomorrow and I don't want anybody to know where I am. No one knows where Tuck is living now. I want to get well and I want to think about a few things."

He smiled. "Me, I hope."

She looked at him soberly. "No, not you, Eddie. I'm going to think about the people who've made me unhappy and try to figure out some way to straighten out that lie about Don and me. Nancy and Bernice believe it and hate me. You've never made me unhappy, Eddie. We've always had fun together. This Saturday night a week Kurt is giving Gina a party at his apartment. I want to be well enough to go."

* * *

Early the next morning she telephoned the apartment house where she and Tuck had lived.

"I'm leaving my new address for only one person," she said. "My brother, Tod Barton. I've been ill and I'm going away and I don't want my address given to any one except him."

When, with Eddie holding her hand, they went out into the May sunlight to the little roadster, Mrs. Bishop looked through the curtains and nodded prophetically.

* * *

All the way from New York Nancy had been running in and out of spasmodic spring showers. In Maryland, not many miles from her mother's house, another storm brooded darkly at twilight and soon torrential rain swept down obscuring her view through the windshield. Never at ease on a wet road, she slackened the speed of the large roadster and sat tensely at the wheel, peering ahead into the darkness and rain.

The days in New York had not lessened her keen resentment toward Alix and her father. She had written Bernice that she was coming directly to her, that she was never going to return to her father. When Alix and Don were married, she and Bernice would move away.

She was thinking of herself and her mother as exiles from the countryside they loved when the car skidded around a slippery curve and the lights found a tall figure directly in their path. Her scream came too late. The car struck and then choked in a clay bank. The figure in the mud lay crumpled.

Later she wondered how she managed to drag him into the car. But strength seemed to come to her in a moment when she thought she had killed a man.

Not daring to look at the muddy figure, she started the undamaged car and pressed her small foot hard on the accelerator. But the car seemed to move at a snail's pace. The hospital was miles away in the city and she knew of no doctor in the vicinity. All the way the figure beside her was motionless.

Stopping the car before her mother's house, she ran in and asked the telephone operator to send a doctor, any doctor, who lived close by and who could get there quickly.

When Berenice came downstairs Nancy pointed to the front door and cried, "Out there! Bring him in!"

When Bernice and the maid brought in Tod's limp muddy figure and laid it on the divan, they found Nancy crumpled on the floor beside the telephone.

* * *

Dr. Fenwick, who had been practicing in the rural community for twenty-five years and who had on several occasions treated Bernice for minor illnesses, came as soon as he received the news.

He found Nancy, revived, Bernice and the maid standing helplessly over the unconscious figure.

Nancy sobbed, "I did it! I did it!"

Bernice's voice was calm though her eyes were deeply distressed.

"Is it serious, doctor? Is he—"

"He's alive. But cuts and bruises and a pretty badly battered head are not his only ailments at present. The boy's half starved. Powerful frame and no flesh on it."

Nancy turned her face away.

"His head," Bernice asked haltingly. "Is it—"

"There's no concussion. Of course he'd had a bad shock. I'd advise the hospital."

Nancy turned around. "No! Let me keep him here! We'll get nurses. They'd say I was speeding. I wasn't! I was going slowly but the car skidded and it was raining so hard I couldn't see. Nobody saw it happen." Covering her face with her hands, she cried, "I'll kill myself if this gets in the papers! They'd say . . ."

The doctor looked up. "You'll have to make a report of it."

"I won't! I'll keep him here until he gets well and give him anything he wants, any amount of money, but I won't let it get in the papers! I'll . . ."

"Nancy," her mother said. "Go upstairs, dear. The doctor and I will talk this over."

When she left, Bernice said, "She has a horror of publicity, doctor. There's a good reason why. We were in the full glare of it at the time of my divorce from Mr. Lawrence. We'll do everything possible for this young man. If he isn't too badly injured, I too should like to keep him here."

He looked at Tod and then looked at her. "I understand. This young man, judging from his appearance, is undoubtedly a tramp. But perhaps that's a strong word. You read about a lot of boys roaming over the country these days, hitch-hiking from one place to another looking for work. Poor young devils."

THEATERS

THIS AND THAT—Paramount seems determined to make a dramatic actress of Dorothy Lamour whether her talents justify it or not; her most recent assignment is to "Disputed Passage" with Akim Tamiroff and Robert Preston. . . . Now that "Zaza" has been released, reviewers are wondering what Claudette Colbert could have done with the role if the Hayes office hadn't sat around with the shears. . . . The African scenes for "Beau Geste" are being filmed in the Mojave desert, 19 miles from Yuma, Ariz. . . . And now comes "The Gracie Allen Murder Case," which should be something new in murder mysteries.

* * *

Worse Things Could Happen.

Being stranded in Paris with a couple dozen beautiful girls doesn't sound so hard to take, but for Jack Benny it meant all sorts of complications in the radio-screen comedian's latest film, "Artists and Models Abroad." The troupe is stranded at the Paris Exposition. Joan Bennett is a lovely co-star for the big orange-raspberry-lemon and strawberry man. The Yacht Club Boys and Mary Boland are also seen in it. The picture is one of the two features opening tomorrow at the Madison, the other being "Homicide Squad."

* * *

Ohio Holds Film.

"Kentucky" will remain at the Ohio through Friday as it continues to draw. A good story about horses always attracts, but "Kentucky" also has an appealing romantic theme. Its most attractive point however, is the coloring in the scenes which show the great horse farms in the Blue Grass country and the horses in the fields. A herd of very young, spirited colts brings oh's and ah's from the audience. Richard Greene, Loretta Young and Walter Brennan have the major roles, with the latter holding the audience in every scene.

* * *

Bobby Breen at Park.

The Bobby Breen film, "Breaking the Ice," opening at the Park Thursday, has Charlie Ruggles, Dolores Costello and Robert Barrat in the cast. It's a story of life in a small town where a pretty young widow is hampered by the strict code of conduct, and her small son's efforts to free her. As a supplementary feature the theater offers "Million Dollar Racket" with Herman Brix.

* * *

Two Comedies.

Two comedies on the Majestic double-feature bill will continue through Thursday. Edward G. Robinson, with Jane Bryan, Allen Jenkins and Ruth Donnelly, offers robust comedy in "A Slight Case of Murder," which has murdered gangsters scattered all over the screen. "Tropical Holiday" is comedy in romance with Old Mexico as a locale. Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland head the cast.

* * *

Music and Drama.

The songs of the last quarter of a century, written by Irving Berlin, and representing the gauge of American tastes in popular music, are used in "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which the Ritz is showing through tomorrow. But there is drama as well as music in this story of a young song writer and an orchestra leader who love the same girl. A Francis Lederer - Madeleine Carroll film, "It's All Yours," rounds out the bill.

PROTESTS SHIFT OF ROAD FUNDS

Sword Joins in Fight Against Bill to Use Auto, Fuel Taxes for Relief.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword was to go to Columbus today to join other road officials in a protest against a bill pending in the legislature which would shift the counties' share of motor license and liquid fuel tax receipts to a relief fund.

Members of the Ohio Society of County Engineers, of which Sword is secretary, were to confer with the legislature's taxation committee on the proposal.

The county engineer said other highway organizations in the state are fighting the bill which would take away most of the road construction and maintenance funds that now come to counties from the state.

"We have financed our WPA and PWA road, bridge and ditch programs from the gas tax and license fees during the past year, providing work for nearly 1,000 men and giving the county needed improvements," Sword asserted.

"Using the funds for direct relief will deprive us of a number of needed projects and put men back on the direct relief rolls," he added.

Richland county last year received $173,840 in liquid fuel and auto license funds, using all of the allocation for road and street construction and maintenance. The distribution included $112,840 in license fees and $61,000 in gas tax receipts.

ON HONOR ROLL

25 Named at Simpson, 155 Get Honorable Mention.

Twenty-five students of John Simpson Junior high school today were named to the honor roll for the final term of the first semester of the 1938-39 school year, and 155 other students were given honorable mention.

Eleven of those named to the honor roll are from the 9th grade, nine from the 7th grade and five from the 8th grade. Of those given honorable mention, 69 are 9th grade students, 48 are from the 8th grade, and 38 from the 7th grade.

Honor roll students are Patricia Hieber, Jean Kelly, Helen Meihack, Rosen Richard, Donna Garber, Gertrude Torski, Wanda Hess, Audrey Anglin, Winifred Bauer, Betty Bolesky and Gretchen Gehl, 9th grade; Lenore Betz, James Bierly, Helen Hagelbarger, Robert Fox and Lois Jane Senert, 8th grade; Shirley Anson, Virginia Marion, Lloyd Schawber, Carol Anne Spencer, Anne Wheatley, Mary Horst, Eileen Schuler, Kathryn Fensch, and Joan Landhy, 7th grade.

PARK GROUP TO BRING FEDERAL THEATER PLAY TO CITY IN APRIL

Mansfield will have an opportunity in April to see one of the most discussed plays in several seasons when the Mansfield Public Parks association sponsors a presentation here of the Federal Theater play, "Prologue To Glory,"

The play is being brought to Mansfield by the parks association to raise funds for the community Fourth of July celebration next summer, Walter Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee of the association, said. The committee is in charge of arrangements for the show.

"Prologue To Glory," which played long engagements in the Maxine Elliot theater in New York City and the Blackstone theater in Chicago, deals with the life of Abraham Lincoln; the little known years when he served as a clerk in a grocery store in New Salem, Ill., and when his romance with Ann Rutledge flourished. It deals with the years when Lincoln, as a gangly, homely youth, felt only vaguely the call to destiny.

The play will be presented at Senior High school auditorium on April 6. Tickets will be sold by members of the parks association.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

PAM—"Dangerous Foes?" By A. W. Brewerton

YES, MY DEAR, WE ARE DEALING WITH SOME VERY CLEVER, DANGEROUS FOES!
YOU SAY DAVID — MR. GORDON — SEEMED DISAPPOINTED OVER HIS SEARCH — WELL — JUST BEFORE HE LEFT ME HE APPEARED SUDDENLY ELATED, MR. PAIGE — — TALKED VERY MYSTERIOUSLY — BUT I DID UNDERSTAND HIM TO SAY THAT AFTER ALL HE MAY NOT HAVE BEEN WRONG! — AS IF HE HAD SOME NEW IDEA — OH, I HOPE IT WAS ABOUT FINDING YOUR STOLEN THINGS!
I HOPE SO! — YOU HAVE GREAT CONFIDENCE IN YOUR FRIEND, HAVEN'T YOU, MY DEAR,
SORRY, COUNT — YOU HAVE NO OTHER CHOICE — YOU MUST EITHER SUBMIT TO ANOTHER SEARCH, WILLINGLY — OR — WE WILL HAVE TO — USE FORCE!
AH — I ZEE!
IT SEEMED COUNT BORIS WAS ABOUT TO YIELD GRACEFULLY — BUT, SUDDENLY, A MEAN LOOKING GUN WAS IN HIS HAND, AIMED DIRECTLY AT DAVID'S HEART!
ONE MINUTE, MY FRIEN'! — THERE WILL BE NO ZEARCH! YOU WILL DO EGSACTLY AZ I ZAY — IF YOU CARE TO LIVE! — YEZ?
HAS GORDON BEEN CAUGHT OFF GUARD? WILL THE COUNT YET ESCAPE?

SELLING HITS STOCK MARKET, REDUCES GAINS

Absorbs Advances Piled Up in Two-Day Rally as Business Tone Brightens.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Gains scored by the stock market in a two-day rally were partially eliminated today as many traders shifted back to the selling side.

On further study of the international situation, some analysts expressed the view the war danger still was great in Europe.

Corporate bonds also tended to slip following the previous rebound and most commodities gave a little ground.

Business comment took on a somewhat brighter tone following the rebound in the markets yesterday and Monday.

"Iron Age" said the steel trade, with the easing of political tension in Europe, was "confident of further improvement during February and March."

Weekly electric power figures showed further expansion.

FIRE HITS CLUB

CRESTLINE — Crestline's fire department was called to the Young Men's club rooms in the Weaver hall Monday evening. It is thought a davenport which was placed too close to a gas stove caught fire. Several pieces of furniture were burned and a hole was burned in the floor.

Firemen gained entrance by breaking in a door and a window.

LISTEN IN AWE TO MAGIC VOICE

1,200 Captivated by Brilliant Concert Program Presented by Marian Anderson.

audience as though a pressure on the breath had been released. And then—deafening bursts of applause.

But it is not her voice alone that keeps audiences still and almost breathless while she is on the stage; it is her own silences which are as dramatic and spine-tingling as song. At the end of each song, after the applause has died down, she looks out over her audience with a gravity and composure that is as eternal as that which lays over a mountain range at dusk.

She seldom smiles and her grave, broad face which reflects a quality of solitude even in the midst of a crowd, reminds you of the Egyptian Sphinx.

Her repose and composure is not a dramatic trick; you feel it the instant you come in contact with her, just as you feel that a quality of tragedy follows always at the side of this talented girl. In her lovely talking voice there is this same deep composure that seems to come from the well of a thousand years of solitude.

She sings always with her eyes closed. "I love each song that I sing," she said last night after the concert. "I close my eyes to shut out the world so that I can hear again each word of my song."

Asked if she ever sang such popular American "classics" as "Old Man River' 'and "Chloe," she said, "Yes, frequently, but only for my own amusement. I never sing them in public."

She is too busy perfecting her foreign languages, of which she speaks a half dozen, to have much leisure time, but sewing is her favorite recreation. While all of her gowns are designed by Chanel of Paris and Czettel of Vienna (the long, trailing gown of stiff black satin which she wore last night was by Czettel), she carries a small portable sewing machine with her and makes informal frocks for herself.

Her program was difficult but satisfactorily balanced, and the audience responded as a Mansfield audience probably never has responded before. Even after her second encore at the end of her program, the applause broke into cheering and calls for her.

When she sang "The Crucifixion" in her Negro group—"They crucified my Lord and He never said a word"—many in the audience wept and there wasn't a stir or breath as the voice, deep and low, carried every word to the topmost row in the balcony.

* * *

Lack of space prevents naming each of her songs, yet to skip one leaves one feeling apologetic. Perhaps the most stirring of her numbers were "Der Tod und das Madschen" by Schubert (the German language is a particularly fine medium for her deep tones); Schubert's always stirring "Ave Maria;" the Verdi aria from "Don Carlos;" Grieg's lovely song of love, "I Love You," and the dramatic "Amuri, Amuri," in which Miss Anderson so perfectly interpreted the spirit of the tired laborer mumbling to his horse on the homeward journey, of his work and his love.

* * *

Her accompanist, Kosti Vahanen, a dignified Finn, who has been an intellectual companion and understanding friend to Miss Anderson over a period of years, adds much to her concert with his understanding of her moods. His music is never in the foreground, but always a background for the singer and her notes.

After the concert an eager crowd milled about the singer back stage, pleading for autographs, reaching for her hand; many of them telling her with tears in their eyes that they had never heard such music before.

Never for an instant did she lose her composure and she accepted adulation as though she were born to it. She autographed programs until her secretary called a halt.

When she returned to Cleveland last night she took with her tributes of flowers from Mitchel Chapel Methodist church, Shiloh Baptist and the Young Women's club.

* * *

In addition to the 800 members of the Mansfield Civic Music association, the auditorium's capacity was taxed with 350 members from Lima, Wooster, Mt. Vernon, Bellefontaine and other Ohio cities.

WOMEN PILOT SCHOOL CAGERS

West Fifth Without Coach, Now Two Teachers Direct Basketball Team.

Neither Miss Anderson nor Miss Black want any credit for the team's splendid showing. Both teachers agree that it is impossible to set up an adequate defense, and as a result they stress shooting in an effort to make the squad more formidable.

"One of the reasons for the absence of defensive play," Miss Black explains, "is due to the lack of rangy boys on the squad. Both Bowman and Bushnell, the latter in possession of second place, have several tall youngsters which gives their teams an advantage."

West Fifth's offense is built around Capt. Charles Brauchler and Mike Zivkoff. Brauchler, star center, is the team's leading individual scorer.

* * *

The two teachers gained their knowledge of the game in high school and at college.

Miss Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Anderson, 86 Parkwood boulevard, played both at Mansfield high school and Ohio university. Miss Black, daughter of Mrs. W. G. Black, 560 Marion avenue, didn't take up the game in high school, but did play at Abbot academy at Andover, Mass.

The two coaches are having a lot of fun matching wits with the eight masculine mentors in games staged at Mansfield high school on Mondays and Thursdays under the direction of Harry Mehock, assistant athletic director at Senior high.

"The tie between the New York stock exchange and Moscow therewith is conclusively closed."

Policy Disclosure Rocks Washington.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Official Washington rocked with repercussions today over President Roosevelt's disclosure of his foreign policy to a secret meeting of the senate military affairs committee.

Legislators indignantly admitted they were bewildered over the series of secret meetings sponsored by administration chieftains, climaxed by the unprecedented action of the president in calling the military committee to the White House for an hour and a half discussion of the whole international picture.

Bit by bit committeemen told what they had heard at the White House. Senators opposed to "aggressor" nations, heatedely declared they would wage a fight on the senate floor "to lift the lid."

President Roosevelt was said to have told the military committee that as commander-in-chief of the army and navy he is supposed to guide the nation's foreign policy; that he was actively co-operating with the democracies; that there was nothing irregular in the presence of an official French air mission in this country.

Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, a member of the committee, said he suspected that the president already has an "understanding" with France and England on co-operation.

Amid the statements of committeemen that the president portrayed a world topsy-turvy with aggressive powers as a warning to America to be prepared for self-defense, Senator Johnson (R) of California, irreconcilable foe of entangling alliances, issued a blast against secrecy:

"Are we on the road to war?" Johnson said in a prepared statement. He went on:

"In the answer every American has an interest and a deep concern. If our present dealings with the French mission that is now in America or any of the secrets now whispered about Washington indicate this, the American people are entitled to know it."

Britain Cheered By Roosevelt Stand.

LONDON —(AP)— The British press showed satisfaction today with accounts of President Roosevelt's meeting with the senate military affairs committee. Emphasis was given to reports that he had said he intended to aid European democracies in every possible way short of war in any conflict with dictatorships.

Such headlines as "Roosevelt to aid democracies," and "our frontier is France — Roosevelt" stretched across the front pages of London evening papers.

Paris Jubilant on News of Statement.

PARIS—(AP)—First editions of afternoon newspapers in Paris used scare headlines today to proclaim that President Roosevelt had declared the "frontiers of the United States are in France."

Although members of the government refused to comment on reports of the president's meeting with the senate military committee yesterday on the ground that his statements were to a closed session, there was undoubted jubilation in official circles

The stock exchange reacted favorably, with stocks rising several points in the early hours of trading as soon as newspapers had printed accounts of the meeting.

MRS. P. F. FRANK DIES IN SOUTH

Wife of Crestline Merchant Stricken Unexpectedly on Visit in Florida.

CRESTLINE — Word reached Crestline Tuesday afternoon of the death of Mrs. Nellie Pocock Frank, 58, wife of Paul F. Frank, Crestline dry goods merchant, who died in Hollywood, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank left Crestline a week ago today for a visit with the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Frank, in Sarasoto, Fla., expecting to spend several weeks in the south. Definite word as to the cause of Mrs. Frank's death was not received.

The body will arrive in Crestline Thursday at 1:37 p. m. and will be taken to the I. G. Foster funeral home, from where private funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. C. F. King, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate and burial will be made in Greenlawn cemetery.

The deceased was born in Navarre, O., March 22, 1880, and came to Crestline with her late parents, J. Frank and Eva Appleman Pocock.

Her marriage to Mr. Frank occurred in Crestline June 22, 1902. She was a teacher in the local schools for four years, previous to her marriage.

Mrs. Frank was active in club and community service work. She was a former president of the Crestline Women's club and a member of the Mansfield Women's Club. She was a member of Jared Mansfield chapter, D. A. R., and a member of the Crestline Methodist church.

Surviving are the husband, four brothers and three sisters; G. Thomas Pocock of Chicago; Floyd of Toledo; Dr. J. Frank, of Lancaster; Edgar E., of Cleveland; Mrs. H. E. Davis and Mrs. Robert Retter of Crestline, and Mrs. Harry Christman of Bucyrus.

WPA EMPLOYES TELL ABOUT 'CUT'

Testify They Were Assessed By Senator's Kin For Campaign.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — (U P.) —The government called a procession of WPA workers today to testify that friends of Senator Dennis Chavez had assessed them 10 per cent of their wages for a political campaign.

They were testifying at the trial of Chavez' sister, Mrs. Anita Tafoya, his son-in-law, former assistant United States District Attorney Stanley Miller, and 33 others charged with conspiracy to use WPA jobs and funds for political purposes.

The witness said the 10 per cent levy was assessed by the Rio Grande Social club, which, other witnesses had testified, forced WPA workers into its membership on penalty of losing their jobs.

Gets First Jobless Check

First benefit check under Ohio's new unemployment compensation law goes to Stanley C. Fox of Columbus, O. The check was for $11.50, a trifle above the estimated average of benefit checks. It represented one-half Fox's average weekly wage. Under Ohio's new "job insurance" law, the worker earns his right to out-of-work benefits by being employed in 20 different weeks during the last 52 for employers covered by the act. After the worker files for a claim, he waits three weeks before the first check is issued. If no job is found by the employment service division in that time, he receives his check.

Auto Club Joins In Inquiry Into 'School Bus Trap'

The Richland County Automobile club and the Cleveland Auto club have joined to make an investigation of the "school bus trap" at the village of Brunswick on Route 42, Jack Berger, assistant secretary of the Richland organization, said today.

A number of Mansfield motorists have been caught recently in the "trap" and also at a "trick light" in the village where a constable waits to make arrests.

Berger said a school bus is parked along the street in Brunswick with only the driver in it, and even though motorists slow down and observe that no passengers are either alighting from or entering the bus, an arrest is made in cases where the motorists do not come to a full stop, he charged.

A recent Mansfield victim related that she was taken to a dingy upstairs room which was the "court" of a justice of the peace and given her choice of signing a waiver and pleading guilty, or being given the maximum of $200 fine and 30 days in jail if convicted. She said she was denied permission to call the Richland Automobile club and was told if she would plead guilty right away she would "get away" with a small fine. She did, and paid $25 and costs.

Berger said there was no recourse except to plead not guilty and demand a trial by jury, which necessitated giving bond and going to considerable expense.

EX-SALESMAN WINS LENIENCY

Ashlander Put on Probation After Admitting Embezzling Charge.

ASHLAND—Stewart Webber, former salesman for the M T. Sharp company, wholesale grocers, was given a suspended penitentiary sentence and placed on probation for three years in common pleas court here today when he pleaded guilty to an indictment for embezzlement.

Webber, secretly indicted last week by the grand jury, admitted embezzling personal property and money totaling $1,900 in the past month from the grocery firm. He was arrested last night.

Judge C. C Chapman ordered Webber to report regularly to the court during his probation period.

REAL PROPERTY SURVEY STARTS IN MANSFIELD

50 WPA Workers Begin Training Class Tomorrow for 4-Month Check.

Fifty WPA "white collar" workers will start tomorrow on a real property inventory survey of Mansfield, to be conducted here for the next four months.

A brief training period will open in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms tomorrow conducted by William H. Van DerVert, supervisor of WPA's district planning division, and E. H. Veach, supervisor of professional and technical projects. After the training period is completed, the actual field work of gathering facts and figures will begin.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce said that the assembly rooms had been provided temporarily, until a permanent headquarters could be found to house the workers.

The survey will consist of a house to house canvas of 8,500 homes in Mansfield in order to gather factual data on the physical properties of the city.

It was emphasized that householders visited by the field workers would not be asked to give their names and that all information taken would be held confidential and used only in compiling the final analysis.

"There is no place for names on the cards to be used by the field workers," Van DerVert said. "The survey is not concerned with the people interviewed, but only with the facts obtained from such persons.

He explained that some of the facts sought in compiling the report will include:

Length of occupancy of the dwelling, monthly rent, services included in rent, number of rooms, number of toilets, conveniences in the form of hot and cold water and lighting and heating, refrigerators, number of persons in the family and age classes, and the number of extra families.

The project, which will cost approximately $30,000, is financed through a $250 appropriation made by both the city and the county for the materials to be used. The federal government is expected to spend $28,000 for all of the labor, while the Chamber of Commerce, another co-sponsor has agreed to furnish the quarters and equipment necessary.

COUNTY WELFARE OFFICE GETS $5,200 IN FIRST FUND ALLOTING

Richland county's welfare department today had $5,258 to start off the new year, receiving $4,000 from the county general tax fund and $1,258 from the state division of public assistance for the care of dependent children and indigent blind.

The welfare program, a part of the federal social security set-up, is financed jointly by the county, state and federal governments, each contributing a third.

The county's first allocation from the state represents the January distribution of funds, while the $4,000 allocated by the county commissioners is approximately one-third of the $13,500 the county will pay into the program this year.

It cost $40,500 to finance the welfare program last year. Mrs. Katherine McMichael, welfare supervisor, said 163 dependent children and 50 parents are being cared for under the program.

In today's allocation of state funds, surrounding counties received considerably less than Richland county because they have fewer wards. Erie county receives the next largest sum, $800, while Morrow receives the lowest, $287. Ashland county got $534; Crawford, $704; Holmes, $403; and Huron, $683.

BEGINS DUTIES

Goodenough on Job as Deputy in Probate Court.

Walter H. Goodenough began his duties today as a deputy in probate court, succeeding Ralph Hardy who went to the Division 3 state highway office at Ashland to have charge of employe personnel records.

Goodenough, former superintendent of the Mansfield Rapid Transit company, was appointed to the post yesterday by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson following Hardy's resignation to take the state highway job.

Hardy, chairman of the Richland county Republican executive committee, was in Ashland today to begin his work. He was appointed by State Highway Director Robert S. Beightler on the recommendation of Murray D. Shaffer, Ashland division engineer.

SHERIFF TAKES YOUTHS TO PEN

2 Begin 1 To 15 Year Sentences On Robbery Charges.

Two youths under sentence from Richland county common pleas court for burglary were taken to the Ohio penitentiary today by Sheriff E. P. Long to begin one-to-15 year terms.

The pair, James McClasky, 22, and Harold Young, 19, were sentenced Saturday by Judge C. H. Huston after they pleaded guilty to indictments.

McClasky admitted robbing the home of Earl Williams in Madison township, and Young confessed to a charge of burglarizing the Ringside cafe. Both had been cited previously for a number of other offenses, Young having served sentences in Tennessee for second degree murder and highway robbery.

LEAVES VILLAGE WITHOUT CLERK

Filing of Embezzling Charge Against Plymouth Official Follows His Resignation.

The village of Plymouth was without a clerk today as a result of the resignation of A. F. Marvin, who was bound over to the county grand jury under $2,500 bond yesterday on a charge of embezzling $2,698 in village funds during the past 26 months.

Mayor J. T. Gaskell of Plymouth said a successor to Marvin, who had held the office for six years, would be appointed within the next two or three days.

Marvin was free under bond today after he waived preliminary examination and pleaded innocent to the embezzlement charge yesterday in municipal court here.

The charge was filed by Prosecutor G. W. Marriott after Plymouth officials refused to bring action against Marvin, who admitted that he converted village funds to his own use, the prosecutor said.

Charges were filed following an investigation by Marriott of reported discrepancies in Marvin's records which were revealed in an audit by State Examiner Charles W. Corbin.

Most of the shortage, the prosecutor said, was in collections of electric bills for the municipal plant which Marvin had made outside his office and failed to record in the cash book.

The examiner's report showed that the diversion of village funds started in February, 1936, reaching a peak of $356 during June of that year. Shortages appeared monthly until April, 1938, with $17 as the smallest amount for a month.

Marriott said the January term grand jury would be called back into session soon to investigate the charge against Marvin.

OPENS DOOR FOR PENSION RUSH

Bill Abolishing Transfer of Property of Ohio's Aged in Assembly's Hopper.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—If the Ohio legislature should abolish the requirement that old age pension recipients transfer their property to the state in trust, applications for old age benefits would increase nearly 10,000 within a few days, welfare department officials estimate.

The provision for the state relinquishing claim to the real estate and personal property of old age pensioners was included in a bill introduced in the Ohio house of representatives last week by Rep. W. H. Whetro (D., Lawrence) and Rep. John C. Carney (D., Cuyahoga).

Wray Bevens, chief of the division of aid for the aged, declared that between 8,000 and 10,000 persons who were eligible to apply for old age assistance under present Ohio law had not done so because of the requirement that the state hold their property in trust until death.

Bevins said the state derived approximately $400,000 during 1938 from estates of old age pensioners as reimbursement for assistance.

Other provisions of the old age pension bill would increase the maximum pension from $30 to $40 per month and lower the age requirement from 65 to 60.

Officials could not estimate the number of persons who would be made eligible for aid by the age requirement revision. They pointed out, however, that there were 112,000 persons already on the pension rolls and 18,000 others others whose applications were being investigated.

Finance Director William S. Evatt estimated the state's share of pension costs at $17,000,000 a year.

FORM COUNCIL

Junior Safety Clubs Organize at Meeting Monday.

Formation of the Mansfield Junior Safety council will be completed at an organization meeting of representatives from the junior safety clubs at 4 p. m. Monday in the municipal court chamber, it was announced today by S. H. Glessner, chairman of the safety committee of the Mansfield council of Parent-Teacher associations.

Under the supervision of Patrolman Frend C. Boals of the Mansfield police department, the organization will be set up as the governing body of the safety clubs now functioning in the city's 10 elementary schools.

Officers of each individual unit, which includes a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, will be represented in the council.

The group, which will have full charge of conducting its own affairs, has been called together to elect officers and draft a city-wide junior safety program. The safety clubs have been functioning at the elementary schools for several years and have a membership totaling more than 5,000 pupils.

To Relieve a Cold Is Not Enough

Father John's Medicine Not Only Helps Break Up Colds, But Builds Up The Body—84 Years In Use. It Must Be Good.

The underlying, basic cause of colds is low vitality—a weakened system which must be nourished. This is exactly what Father John's Medicine does. It is not "just another cold remedy." It contains healthful ingredients which build up the body and help to renew its vitality.

Father John's Medicine was prescribed for the Reverend Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass. in 1855, and has been used for 84 years as a treatment for colds and coughs due to colds, and also as a proven body builder.

Bird House Building Contest For County Boys

A bird house building contest open to all boys in Richland county of school age, was announced today by Floyd Dent, executive of the Johnny Appleseed Area Boy Scout council.

The contest got under way today and continues until Saturday, April 8. Cash prizes amounting to $43 will be awarded.

Contestants must be residents of Richland county and builder of the houses they enter. Contestants can only enter newly built houses that have not been entered in any previous competition but they may enter as many houses as they wish in each classification. [illegible] are limited to one prize in [illegible] class.

The two classifications are A—[illegible] houses, and B—single tenant houses.

Judging will be based on a possible 100 points given on design, utility and workmanship. Judging will be done by Richland county bird lovers, and all prize winning houses will become the property of the contest committee, Dent said.

Cooperating with the scouts in the contest will be the Yuncker Brothers Sporting goods store which will furnish the prizes. Principals and manual training instructors and teachers in county schools will assist.

ASKS TRANSFER

City Seeks Court Okay to Shift $1,900 In Garbage Funds.

A request for permission to transfer $1,900 from the garbage can deposit fund to the garbage fund had been filed today in common pleas court by the city of Mansfield.

The city's petition, submitted by Solicitor Marion D. Ward, states that the transfer is needed for the purchase of a new truck for the garbage department. There is a surplus in the can deposit fund, built up by garage can deposits from customers who never called for their refunds, the request states.

The transfer already has been approved by the state tax commission.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1939.

Surface turmoil is bad enough, but those recent quakes indicate that the center of the earth is also unsettled.

Regardless of the groundhog, it will probably be advisable to figure on a coal supply that will carry through the next six weeks.

"It is not everybody who can insult France," said Premier Daladier in a speech to the chamber of deputies. The privilege reserved for Hitler and Mussolini up to now, seems about to be withdrawn even from them.

Another 'Lame Duck' Appointment.

QUITE in accord with such appointments as those of Hugo Black, Frank Murphy and Harry Hopkins, is that of former Congressman Thomas R. Amlie, of Wisconsin, for a place on the interstate commerce commission.

Mr. Amlie is among the New Deal lame ducks that the administration apparently feels obligated to elevate to a high place, following repudiation at the polls—as was done in the Murphy case.

Tutored in politics by the La Follettes, Mr. Amlie has gone far beyond his tutors in the matter of leftist leaning and in his advocacy of government ownership of all industry, commerce and finance.

While in congress his radicalism went too far for even the extreme leftists, appearing to class with what is known in Ohio politics as a "nut."

When it is considered that the commission to which Mr. Amlie has been nominated by President Roosevelt is the one that faces the difficult task of working out plans for rehabilitating and co-ordinating the nation's railroads, the absurdity of such a choice becomes even more obvious.

When the senate confirmed the nominations of Murphy and Hopkins to cabinet posts it was argued that the President should have whom he wished in his cabinet.

Such argument does not carry through to Amlie on the interstate commerce commission. For a position of such importance an appointee should have qualifications.

Motorcycle Determines Day's Policies.

SUCH an important thing as day-to-day traffic law enforcement in Mansfield now seems to hinge largely on the whims of a wornout motorcycle which has outlived its years of dependable service and is laid up for repairs more of the time than it is in service.

Then again, this motorcycle is of the sidecar variety and requires two officers in making the rounds to chalk-mark parked cars in restricted areas, whereas the newer, three-wheeled motorcycles used for traffic duty in some cities, need but one officer.

Replacement of the city's two decrepit motorcycles with two new ones appears to be an essential preliminary to any consistently maintained program of traffic law enforcement.

Small Gifts, Big Total.

FINAL figures on receipts from this year's anti-infantile paralysis drive will not be available for awhile, but they may be expected to show good results from the "march of dimes" and the birthday balls.

The five preceding drives, beginning in 1934, brought in more than a million dollars each. In this short period, small contributions from many individuals have made possible a national program for wiping out a terrible and baffling disease, advanced understanding of this disease and its treatment, and created a Foundation for conducting research and granting aids to local agencies for paralysis treatment.

Something else has been accomplished. It has been shown that when the public imagination is stirred and its interest aroused, popular philanthropy can accomplish some of the mighty works that once depended almost wholly on private philanthropy.

Anniversary of Christian Endeavor.

OBSERVANCE this week of the fifty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Christian Endeavor society supplies an example of the permanence and growing influence sometimes attained by movements that start in a small way.

It was back in 1881 that inspiration came to Rev. Francis E. Clark, a pastor in Portland, Me., to organize a group of young people for social gatherings in wholesome surroundings, without stressing denominationalism but maintaining a spiritual and cultural atmosphere.

The outcome of this venture into the field of interesting young people in practical religion has been to spread the work of Christian Endeavor into practically all civilized countries, with a membership totaling around four million.

Men's and Women's Work.

WOMEN cannot be blamed for invading a man's field when men invade a woman's field, suggests a report from the Women's Bureau of the federal department of labor. "Available data indicate that men are encroaching in women's traditional fields of retail trade, hotels and restaurants, laundries, office work, textiles, men's clothing and confectionary." What is sauce for the gander must also be sauce for the goose.

So the bureau concludes that more attention must be paid to women's vocational training and guidance, and they must be prepared to enter many new lines of employment.

It is surprising, the extent to which modern men and women encroach upon each other's characteristic work and fit into each other's environment. In large areas of commercial, educational and industrial work they seem interchangeable.

Desperate Dictators.

THE Nazi and Fascist governments are becoming desperate because their systems are not working. They keep their people employed, but the people have less and less to eat and wear, as their labor and material resources and public credit are squandered on armament for conquest.

This situation at last gives the democracies a chance. They have most of the world's sanity and material resources. They are beginning to meet the aggression of the outlaw nations by stopping their credit and drawing an economic noose around them. If the outlaws can be tamed in that way and brought to their senses, another great war may be avoided.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Not in a long time have certain members of congress been so much caught in a mill of their own making as in the case of the so-called neutrality act.

Just now it is especially painful to members like Senator Nye of North Dakota who are distressed over how the act has injured Loyalist Spain, but are hauled another way by their original wish to keep the United States entirely out of the struggles of foreign powers.

Thus they were more than pleased when Henry L. Stimson, former secretary of state (under Hoover), advanced a plan which offered them an "out" even if it left their original principles somewhat tangled.

Fundamentally the neutrality act is based on the supposition that the country cannot trust a president in his conduct of foreign affairs. It had its origin in investigations of the munitions committee, which Nye headed. Several committee members came to the conclusion that President Wilson was bamboozled into leading the United States into war on the side of the Allies by the machinations of bankers and munitions makers.

* * *

'Pressure' Danger.

NO PRESIDENT, they asserted, can withstand such tremendous pressure. So the neutrality act was designed to prevent any groups from gaining a profit from a foreign war, thus avoiding any financial interest in it which would need U. S. protection.

The neutrality act, originally did not apply to civil wars, but the alarming prospect that Spain might become the starting place for a new World war excited congress to enact a special resolution as soon as it came into session in January, 1937. It prohibited shipment of arms and munitions to either side in Spain. Later the regular neutrality act was amended to include civil wars.

It developed after that that the real problem in Spain, so far as the United States was concerned, was the fact that Italy and Germany were supplying munitions to Insurgents while Loyalist Spain, a friendly government recognized by the U. S., had only inadequate supplies.

What was most painful to neutrality advocates was the fact that the winning side was favored by totalitarian states whose ideology is so sharply at conflict with democracy in the U. S.

That made Nye and associates willing to overlook their earlier insistence on an attitude of hands-off-no-matter-what-happens. They advocated legislation specifically lifting the embargo.

* * *

Stimson's Plan.

AND then Stimson suggested that such legislation was really not necessary. Here is the situation:

The neutrality act provides that when foreign war breaks out and threatens the peace and security of the United States, the President must proclaim the fact, whereupon the arms embargo goes into effect. The special act covering Spain did not give the president such leeway. It simply prohibited shipment of arms to Spain.

Both the neutrality act and the special act covering Spain, however, permit the president to lift the embargo when he finds that the shipment of arms would not jeopardize the peace of the United States. A year ago the president said the situation was such that he could not act, and that any change would have to come through congress.

Now Stimson advances the suggestion that it is not the shipment of arms to Spain that endangers the peace of the United States but the real danger is the embargo which helps the totalitarian foes of Loyalist Spain to win. Moreover, he warned (as warnings have been issued before) that it was setting a bad precedent to refuse to ship arms to a friendly state trying to put down a rebellion.

His interpretation would shift to the president the responsibility for lifting the Spanish embargo. And the neutrality group favored his interpretation.

Quite aside from all this, it now might be asked who is putting the heat on the president, the bankers and munitions makers — or others?

A Major Industry.

Fast becoming one of America's major industries is sports.

If anyone has any doubt about it, the census bureau in Washington would put him right.

The bureau finds, after checking with American manufacturers of athletic goods, that $44,460,525 worth of equipment was turned out in 1937—a gain of 27.5 per cent over $34,863,730 reported in 1936. It is safe to say 1938 will show another large gain.

Wage earners in the industry increased from 9,665 to 11,398 and wages went up from $9,018,083 to $11,730,185.

Golf is the sport Americans spent the most money for—$13,760,337 on equipment alone.

And you may be surprised to learn that base ball is slipping in the value of products. This sport may be the national pastime, but it is not the money maker for the manufacturer that it once was. A decrease of $488,820 was chalked up in 1937.—Danville Commercial-News.

YOU WOULD BE HAPPIER IN MY ZOO

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

THERE was a day when a good waitress was a brisk, neat girl who brought you what you ordered, without too much delay, and set it down without pouring soup down your collar. That was about par for the course and nobody thought of elaborating these simple requirements. That slack day is past. Nothing is simple any more. In this year's competition among the New York hotels to select the "Queen of Trays," the contest is on the basis of (a) wholesomeness (b) intelligence (c) knowledge of diatetics (d) ability to handle people.

The most wholesome waitress I ever saw once slid a big slab of open-face plum pie upside down on the lap of my new summer suit. The best waitress of my experience was not too intelligent when it came to anything outside the deft skill and conditioning of her trade. Once in my early youth I returned from a horseback ride with a friend with my riding gear in a small dufflebag, and stopped at this girl's big, roaring beanery on the way home. The next day I missed my riding togs and was pretty sure I had left them at the restaurant. The noon hour rush was on when I stopped to inquire. The cashier was not in sight and I signaled my favorite waitress, juggling a mountain of dishes near the desk:

"Will you ask the cashier if anyone found a package with a pair of puttees and a khaki jacket in it?"

"Hey Mac!" she yelled over the heads of the multitude and all their gustatory din, "they's a guy here says he lost a pound of putty and package of crackerjack."

At that, she was the best waitress in the place, but I suppose they would flunk her now on the score of "ability to handle people." For a minute or two I felt I was going to need a bit of handling.

* * *

THE new curriculum for waitresses is a part of a whole lot of genteel feminizing of our once uncouth crossroads. I think the phenomenon is more observable in the smart little tea rooms and restaurants, particularly in the village, than anywhere else. When you drop into these attractive little places occasionally, you are impressed by the charm and savoir faire of the cashier, who has the air of a hostess rather than of a business woman. After a few turns on this circuit, you get to know that this one is Bryn Mawr and the other one Wellesley and the chic little party down the street Sweet Briar.

It's the depression. College girls are sales girls, not only in the swank clothes shops but in the department stores; they are cashiers and managers of restaurants, sometimes having a tiny spot of their own, and—this is no happy or felicitous commentary on our age—quite a number of them are elevator operators.

I find some old-timers grouching about this new tea party atmosphere of the town. They do not feel resentment over the girls taking jobs which used to go to men. They just feel it cramps their style—this, along with coeducational drinking at the new red lacquer and shiny metal bars.

"It makes you feel awful restrained and grammatical," said one poor old left-over of the days when the world was not only safe for democracy but for casual and offhand elbow-bending. "It used to be you could let your hair down at one of those long, straight smoky old bars, with the free-lunch menu chalked on the mirror. You get nervous in these new joints, with these college dames all over the place. You might split an infinitive or grab the wrong fork, and you think maybe you shouldn't have worn a soft collar to a place like this. It spoils your digestion. The last time I went into one of those joints I got all steamed up trying to be nice, and when I paid the check I bowed to this doll and said I was so happy to have met her and hoped to see her again and all that. She bowed right back and I backed out, under the impression I had been having tea at Mrs. Van Hoophen-Hyphens. Well, I suppose we gotta be nice, but we did used to have a lot more fun."

* * *

THE above oldster and his pals probably would get a lot of malicious satisfaction out of a piece I saw in a wearing apparel trade paper the other day. It told about two of the biggest department stores in New York putting back on the job a lot of middle-aged and elderly saleswomen who had been replaced by pretty young things from the colleges.

Smart and comely as they were, the youngsters lacked imagination in sensing the needs of older women. A middle-aged woman, watching her budget, and her figure requiring some special understanding, did not find the young women tactful or appreciative of her problem. There are some things which require clever youth to live quite a few years before they understand them. The trade journal reported that since this change was made both stores had chalked up a big lift in sales.

New Generation Taller and Larger.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE coming generation seems to be growing taller and larger than its parents. Whether this is due to better care and the improvement in pediatric knowledge or is due to the workings of natural selection is debatable.

Certainly there is no question about the improved quality of the science of pediatrics, which has to do with the hygiene and care of infants and children. The striking and dramatic example of this is the case of the quintuplets. Never before in the history of the world has a set of quintuplets been raised to childhood, but then never before in the history of the world has our knowledge of how to feed and care for infants been so complete.

And even more important than that, never has our knowledge of how to protect infants from contagious diseases been so complete. The quintuplets survived and thrived because this knowledge was applied to them in the most exact and efficient manner.

But this knowledge and these methods are being spread out and diffused throughout the civilized world. The average care of an infant today in the average home is as far superior to that of fifty years ago, as the care of fifty years ago was superior to the care of the infants in the Stone Age.

With Doctor's Aid.

Certainly this thought suggests itself on considering the reports of the changed tables of height and weight in an unselected group of children, brought up in the modern manner. No institutionalization took place as was the case with the quintuplets. The supervision was carried out at home and consisted of examination by the doctor twice a month up to three months, once a month until the end of the first year, every three months to two years, and twice a year until the age of five.

This, of course, meant that advice as to diet, clothing, bathing and preventive immunization was given by competent doctors and carried out by intelligent parents.

Specifically, in detail the diet came up to a few simple requirements. It was ample in caloric requirements. There was plenty of milk and eggs during the early months and meat and liver after the half-year period.

The child was always encouraged to "grow up" as regards eating.

Sun Baths.

Stripped sun baths were given daily in summer and alpine lights in winter.

The economic status of the households is important—41 per cent fell in the income group from $1500 to $3000.

The results show that at the end of five years these children are on the average nearly half an inch taller and four pounds heavier than the tables heretofore used for averages would indicate.

Would You Like to Be a Donald Duck?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHY do bilious, bored Business Men whoop and ha-ha over Donald Duck? Why do snooty, serious-minded Matrons giggle over Mickey Mouse? Why do a million citizens turn out for a Walt Disney cartoon against one for a Shakespearean comedy?

"BECAUSE IT'S MAGIC!" says Benjamin De Casseres.

Mr. De Casseres, as you doubtless know, is one of America's Big Time thinkers. He knows more about people than they know themselves . . . and he doesn't have to go to Shakespearean dramas to find it out. He finds it quite as well, if not better, sitting in a movie theater—watching a big, tired, disgusted man turn into a little, snub-nosed kid . . . or an embittered, disillusioned woman become a starry-eyed Juliet. So, when it comes to this national habit of ours called Walt Disney, you can bet your last chaw of gum Ben has the low-down.

"MAGIC! THAT'S WHAT THE HUMAN SOUL CRAVES," said he is a recent column. "FAIRY STORIES . . . IMPOSSIBLE TALES . . . MIRACULOUS FLIGHTS THROUGH THE AIR!"

And, by the answering stir in your own limping, discouraged heart, you know that he has touched the truth. Magic! Yes, that's what you want, too! Something that will bring back the glittering glories you dreamed of as a little tyke . . . the gallant adventures you followed in your shy, bewildered seventeen-year-old heart . . . the flaming peaks you once thought you'd scale, even at 25 . . . 30 . . .

MAGIC! To lift you out of your humdrum rut . . . to clean you of your fears and free you from your failures . . . to make you believe in yourself once more . . . and fight for the Faith you once held— Magic! Dear God only knows how much you need it!

"THE MAGICIANS . . . THEY'RE THE REALLY GREAT ONES OF THE WORLD!" cries wise De Casseres "HOW IS A MAN'S GREATNESS TO BE MEASURED? BY THE MAGIC WHICH ENABLES HIM TO CARRY THEM OUT OF THEMSELVES."

And again your heart shouts. "Yes! Yes! That's so! They're the fellows who really turn the trick. Not the famous scientists . . . the genius inventors . . . the financial wizards. They're great, too, in their way . . . they do things for people. But they don't do things TO people as the magic ones do."

And you think gratefully, enviously, of the people with this Heaven-sent gift. People like De Casseres himself . . . and Walt Disney . . . and brave old Marie Dressler, holding sobs and laughter in her wrinkled hands . . . and many another of whom the world never heard. Poor people, many of them. Ordinary people holding ordinary jobs. Yet they have the golden touch, too. They too, change a room when they enter it . . . change life itself . . . quicken and warm everyone they touch. How you envy them! If only YOU had such power! But notta chance! You, with your dishrag personality — why YOU couldn't quicken a China Egg! And, for the millionth time you think, angrily, how unfair life is —giving one man so much and the next one, so little.

But life isn't unfair. YOU'RE JUST DUMB! You, too, have Magic, if you'd only realize it. Each one of us has Magic . . . some special Magic which no one else possesses . . . some special form of Power which will make us stand out from the crowd, and leave our mark on the crowd—IF WE WILL USE IT HONESTLY.

But we can't get results by copying someone else's Power, borrowing someone else's tricks. You've got to be what you ARE, as you are. And that's plenty—if you'll be it honestly. You may have only a smile to offer . . . or a good boiled dinner . . . or a warm handshake. Or simply the ability to BELIEVE IN THE OTHER FELLOW. But any of these will be as effective — IF YOU GIVE IT SINCERELY. ONE OUNCE OF INDIVIDUALITY IS WORTH A TON OF SYNTHETIC UMPH.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Short short story in quotes:

News item: "Ethel Waters, blues singer, has been signed for the role of Hagar in Guthrie McClintic's forthcoming production of 'Mamba's Daughters,' a dramatization of Dubose Heyward's novel of Negro life along the Charleston, S. C., waterfront. Miss Waters' previous experience has been confined to revues, nightclubs, and concert halls. She has never appeared in a straight drama on the legitimate stage."

* * *

"I'm no actress. I don't know how to act. I get choked and dizzy and I don't know what's going on when I get up there. . . . I wanted to start from the beginning. I wanted to work my way up. I wanted to try a straight play. Does it sound crazy to come right out and say I prayed? Does it sound crazy? . . . Listen, Mister, I won't feel no offense if you put down I'm a little screwy." Ethel Waters, in an interview.

* * *

"Ethel Waters put aside her famous nightclub and revue capers last evening to tread the old boards of the Empire theater in her debut as a dramatic actress, an eventful occasion which turned at the final curtain into an ovation for the star. To that general uproar I would like to add these ink-stained salutes for a performance of such warmth, and power, and simplicity that it ultimately swept along with it a very reluctant and sprawling tragedy."—John Anderson, critic.

* * *

"Last night was Ethel Waters' triumph. The Ethel Waters who has enriched many a musical comedy and revue with her eloquent singing of Negro songs, who gave a concert not long ago at Carnegie Hall, came to the old Empire theater as a dramatic actress in 'Mamba's Daughters,' and established herself as one of the finest of actresses, white or black." —Arthur Pollock, critic.

* * *

"Those of you who know Miss Waters as a superb singer of songs in musical revues will be amazed to see at the Empire theater a new Ethel Waters, singing spirituals with artistry and genuine emotion and acting a demanding role magnificently."—Robert Colman, critic.

* * *

"There is, to be sure, small opportunity . . . for display of Miss Waters' ability to stir the heart with her voice, but in the main the drama demands a great deal more than that. It requires sustained acting through two and a half hours, during which she is almost constantly on the stage, and almost constantly engaged in playing upon the emotions of the audience. She met all these demands so capably, so sincerely, and so simply that there were apparently no dissenters in the audience that cheered her at the final curtain." —Sidney B. Whipple, critic.

* * *

"Again and again she seems in her own person to be writing Hagar for the Heywards' play. Even when the text is no more than a scenario for a silent movie, she manages to turn it into a talkie. Her very pantomime can be so eloquent that it seems wired for sound."—John Mason Brown, critic.

* * *

Note: If Miss Waters is really on the level about not being able to act, she ought to drop all those critics a note and put them wise. After all, even critics appreciate a tip now and then.

The Groundhog.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TOMORROW is Groundhog day, and tradition says, if he emerges from his burrow, runs about and sees his shadow, all the saints in heaven or the dark sinister creatures far beneath cannot keep him from returning to remain asleep for six more long weeks before spring is really here.

Since last fall, I have marked the entrances of several woodchuck holes, with no other thought than to observe his mood on February second. Two I filled with frozen grass and earth and left the other open for investigation.

The one at the edge of a steep bank in the midst of a brier patch I believed would be the easiest to explore with pick and shovel. When the chores were done, I picked up the tools and started off, hoping my wife would not see me. But when I thought I was safe behind the shed, I heard her call and ask whatever I was up to. I answered, briefly, that I'd tell her later, and went on.

I dug the frozen ground away and followed the burrow deeper and deeper, until I had shoved a huge mound of earth down the hillside. I began to think the sleeping tenant was not at home. Then, after rounding out a deeper sandy spot, I reached my arm, up to the elbow, into a narrow opening, and with my outstretched fingers felt some fur.

For the first time, I knew how a dog feels when hot upon a trail and why he barks so strangely. I dug harder and more cautiously until I had unearthed the rear parts of a sleeping groundhog. I pulled him, slowly and carefully, out into the open space. He was rolled up into a furry ball, and remained that way for some time. Then I saw the curled up body slowly relax and stretch full length upon the ground.

The eyes looked up at me in mute surprise, as if to ask why I should so rudely disturb a fellow's slumber. I, in turn, wondered why he did not waken up, look at his calendar, and do his stuff. We were strangers to each other.

His thoughts were not about the weather, though, for he moved slowly and stiffly upon his cramped feet and went down deeper into his winter home. I wished him God's blessing and pleasant dreams as I watched him disappear again into his narrow burrow.

Duce Parades Italy's Blackshirts But Holds Silence

TROOPS MARCH IN TRIBUTE TO WAR VICTIMS

Absence of Speech by Dictator Marks Exercises; Widows of Soldiers Honored.

(By Associated Press)

ROME—Premier Mussolini paid ceremonial homage to Fascism's black-shirt fighters in Spain and reviewed 20,000 Fascist militiamen today without indicating on what front they might fight again.

Il Duce refrained from saying even a few words to his followers as he distributed medals to the survivors of Spanish and Ethiopian war dead in services at the great national monument beside the Piazza Venezia and later watched the troops march past in the broad Via Nazionale.

The events were in observance of the 16th anniversary of the Fascist militia's organization.

Mussolini Marks Time.

While a brief speech had been expected by many, the lack of one occasioned no great surprise. Diplomatic quarters in the past few days have come to the belief that Premier Mussolini would mark time until the end of the Spanish war before giving any official indications of what plans he might have—plans which agitation by the Fascist press have indicated revolved about a demand upon France to grant colonial concessions in Africa.

Machine-guns and artillery set up a deafening din as Il Duce strode up the broad marble steps to open the ritual.

Machine-gun fire sounded again each time he stepped forward to pin decorations on the black-garbed widows and mothers, many of them with trembling hands as they gave the Fascist salute.

Diplomats and foreign military attaches were invited to the military spectacle, a visual reminder of a part of the strength which Adolf Hitler linked with that of Germany in his reichstag speech as "strong enough to safeguard peace" and "to end resolutely and successfully any conflict which irresponsible elements lightly start."

British, Nazi Trade Controversy Easing.

LONDON—(AP)—A hint that Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech might lead to a German-British peace in world trade was advanced today as the cabinet studied reaction to Premier Chamberlimitation of world armaments.

The suggestion of an end to trade warfare came from Robert Spear Hudson, secretary of the overseas trade department, who two weeks ago assailed the barter system Germany uses to get business as a "reversal to the practice of the middle ages."

Both Germany and England are now in bitter contest for the markets of southeastern Europe.

Hitler in his exposition of the German need of trade to feed his people declared "we must export or die," and Hudson in an address last night declared that his phrase was "one of the most encouraging things we have had for a very long time."

"I believe that—if we can re-establish confidence and remove tension—there is plenty of export trade to go around for both our countries."

Nazis Swing Efforts To Trade Problems.

BERLIN — (AP) — It became increasingly apparent today that Chancellor Hitler's determination to increase German trade might put Nazi political demands temporarily in second place.

While the press kept up the colonial arguments which Hitler strongly advanced in his reichstag speech Monday night, the economics ministry concentrated on the more immediate question of export.

It was announced German and British industrial representatives would meet in Duesseldorf Feb. 28 to consider mutual trade and economic problems. (The British minister of overseas trade indicated last night that a British-German agreement to end conflict in world trade might be reached upon a lessening of international tension.)

A German representative departed for Moscow, and usually informed Germans hinted at the possibility of trade or political negotiations. Economics Minister Funk began conversations with the Czechoslovak trade minister.

figures today in its monthly review to show that 1939 had started under more favorable conditions than those prevailing a year ago.

The review stated that developments in trade and industry in the first three weeks of January and throughout December were chiefly seasonal, but that the entire last quarter of 1938 showed a marked recovery in almost every industry in the district, large and small.

Employment gains were greater, or contrary to, seasonal movements of other years, and of great importance to consumer goods industries was the fact that payrolls expanded more in December, as compared with November, than did total employment. Department store and other retail sales were up more than seasonally, and passenger automobile registrations in December were more than 50 per cent above the same period a year ago.

WINS ELECTION

Federalist Party Takes All But Two Civic Day Posts.

SHELBY—The Federalist party took all the city offices except two at the Boy Scout election last night at the First Methodist church for the Scout Civic day next Monday. The Scouts will hold the city offices during the day.

Hal Lewis, a Nationalist candidate, defeated the Federalist candidate, Roger Pfahler, for mayor, and Jack Vail won over Kenneth Troxell for first ward councilman, in the only two victories for the Nationalist party.

Federalist candidates winning offices were Irvin Hollenbaugh, director of law; Fred Garvin, finance director; Jimmy Herbert, utilities director; Ray Zeiters, fire chief; B. E Briggs, police chief; Donald Cline, first ward councilman; Jack Robb, third ward councilman; David Lewis, fourth ward councilman, and Eugene Keller, councilman-at-large.

HEADS CLUB

ASHLAND—Mrs. C. W. Wharton, prominent Ashland woman, was elected to the presidency of the Ashland Senior Federation of Women's clubs at a regular meeting held in the Presbyterian church here.

Other new officers included: First vice president, Mrs. S. M. Martin; second vice president, Mrs R W. Bixler, recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Elliott; corresponding secretary, Miss Susie Hisey, and Mrs. O. M. Garber, treasurer.

RECOVER CAR

SHELBY—A car valued at $200, stolen earlier this week, today had been recovered by the Shelby police. The car, owned by Urban Fisher of 12 Steele avenue, was found in a ditch on the West Main street road, west of Shelby, yesterday. Police are investigating clues.

Hollywood Hears Jackie Coogan, Parents Map Settlement.

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Jackie Coogan, now earning a living to effect a reconciliation with his actress bride, Betty Grable, may soon be at peace with his mother and stepfather. A compromise of his suit against them for the millions he purportedly earned as a child actor, was indicated today. The suit comes to trial Monday.

The possibility of some "development" before this week-end was indicated by Charles Katz, counsel for Coogan's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein.

JUDGE WEIGHS ASHLAND CASE

Considers Appeal of Bonding Companies to Be Released as Surety for Faber.

ASHLAND — On Judge C. C. Chapman of the Ashland common pleas court rested today the decision as to whether H. O. Faber would remain the treasurer of Ashland county.

After twice overruling that the action be dismissed, and after twice refusing to allow an affidavit of prejudice filed against him to remove him as the presiding judge, the jurist, after hearing counsel of two bonding companies in their appeal to be relieved from continuing as bond for Faber, took the action under advisement.

If Judge Chapman grants to the bonding companies their application based on the appeal, they will no longer be liable for the bond of the treasurer.

If the application is granted, and the companies are no longer liable for the bond, it throws the measure back to the commissioners, and if they fail to provide new bond, Faber will be out of a job, court attaches pointed out.

The hearing on the appeal, which opened in common pleas court here Tuesday morning was the aftermath of an unsuccessful effort on the part of two bonding companies, the American Surety company and the New York casualty company to be relieved of their responsibility after alleged financial irregularities were discovered in the sales tax division of the treasurer.

In their original application, the bonding companies were rejected by the commissioners in the efforts to have the bond cancelled, and they appealed to the Ashland common pleas court.

RITES FRIDAY

ASHLAND — Funeral services for Mrs. Carl Finley, 63, who died at her home in West Salem, Tuesday morning, will be held Friday at 2 p. m. with Rev. John Sutz officiating. The services will be held in the Mowery funeral home, and burial will be made in the West Salem cemetery.

Survivors of Mrs. Finley include her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Jackson of Magadore, and Mrs. Ella Herman of Akron; three sisters, Mrs. Frank Keen of West Salem, Mrs. Paul Yacanova of Kent, and Mrs. Alta Frazier of Cuyahoga Falls, and two brothers, David Fye of West Salem and Charles Fye of Wellington.

TAPPAN SALES PARLEY OPENS

75 Representatives of Firm From All Parts of U. S., in City for 3-Day Meeting.

More than 75 Tappan Stove company representatives from all parts of the United States arrived in Mansfield today for the opening of a three-day sales conference.

A banquet tonight at the Mansfield-Leland hotel where the business sessions are being held, will highlight the close of the first day's program.

A. B. Cameron of Detroit, sales manager of the Philgas department of the Phillips Petroleum company and R. S. Agee of New York, sales promotion manager of the American Gas Association and Equipment Manufacturers, will be the guest speakers.

Miss Louise McFarland, home economist of the Ohio Fuel Gas company, will present a short skit.

This afternoon's session, conducted by R. J. Hammer, advertising manager, concerned advertising and promotional ideas concerning the 1939 Tappan models which were introduced to the group this morning by Alan Tappan, vice president.

K. B. Miller, assistant sales manager, discussed the general features of the new products from a merchandising angle at this morning's session.

Tomorrow the group will visit the factory. R. M. Lamb, factory superintendent, will discuss factory relations, the production of the Tappan line, together with service and field problems on Friday.

LOYALISTS FLEE FASCIST SWEEP NORTH ON COAST

Franco's Troops Seize Many Villages and Towns in Central Catalonia.

(By International News Service)

PERPIGNAN, FRANCE—Sweeping rapidly northward along the Mediterranean coast insurgent Spanish forces have entered Gerona province in pursuit of government troops, it was claimed today.

Advices from Generalissimo Francisco Franco's headquarters stated the insurgent legions captured the town of Blanes, 40 miles north of Barcelona, which fell to the advancing forces last week.

In addition, despite heavy snow and rain, Franco's troops accomplished major advances in the northern and central sectors of Catalonia, capturing many villages in their drive to push the government defenders across the Pyrenees border into France or "into the sea."

Admit Insurgent Gains.

At the same time, on the southwestern Estramadura front, the insurgent lines were "rectified" at several points, it was announced. Other gains were registered near Madrid.

Government authorities partially admitted the insurgent claims in a communique issued at Gerona stating the insurgents had made "slight" gains on the Catalonian front.

The flood of refugees, meanwhile, flowed across ahe border into France without abatement as Franco's troops drove onward. Official French figures placed the number now in France at more than 18,000.

Some 60,000 more are spread along the frontier and another 30,000 are expected to arrive there shortly.

The insurgents were reported to have rached the outskirts of Berga, less than 25 miles from the frontier and to have taken 1,500 prisoners while occupying the coastal village of Malgrat.

Operators Go on Strike In New York; Workers Use Stairs.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Hundreds of workers in the mid-town garment district arrived in their offices a little short of breath this morning due to a strike of elevator employes and other building service employes.

James J. Bambrick, president of the building service employes international union, said about 4,000 employes were out. Many of the affected buildings are 20 stories or more high. Bambrick said 500 buildings in the garment district would be involved.

Negotiations for contract renewal between the union and the Midtown and the Penn-zone realty associations which represent about 300 buildings broke off last night.

COVINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Kentucky state police Sergt. Roy Osborne said today Henry Armstrong, colored boxer, was wanted for questioning in connection with an automobile collision in which two Covington schoolteachers were hurt and Armstrong's car seriously damaged.

The accident occurred Sunday night near Warsaw, Ky. Osborne said Armstrong stopped but did not await the arrival of police as required by Kentucky law.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Boxer Henry Armstrong, here on an exhibition tour, said he had not been informed that Kentucky police wanted to question him concerning an automobile accident Sunday night.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often passes out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain in your stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

SMALLER CLUBS HAVE SOCIAL FUNCTIONS

Members of Tuesday Night Group Help Hostess Celebrate Birthday; Others Play Cards, Sew for Entertainment.

A VARIETY of social functions occupied Mansfield's smaller card clubs yesterday afternoon and evening, as some of the major organizations presented book reviews and papers, and the music lovers listened to the Civic Music association concert by Marian Anderson.

Mrs. Grace Tivener, Rae avenue, who was celebrating her birthday yesterday was hostess at a 6:30 p. m. chicken dinner served to members of the Tuesday Night club. The club members honored her in return with a handkerchief shower. Mrs. Charles Wolfe was given a personal shower by the members, and Mrs. Robert Springer, who is leaving this week-end for Fort Sill, Okla., was guest of honor.

* * *

Card prizes were won by Mrs. Adam Wagenhals, Mrs. Russell Seymour and Mrs. Everett Croskey. Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Edward Mattox and Miss Evelyn Hazlett. The next regular meeting will be Feb. 14 with Mrs. Wolfe, South Mulberry street.

* * *

Mrs. Pauline Black, Herman avenue, was hostess yesterday to members of the Social Crochet club when they met for sewing and a social afternoon. Luncheon was served by the hostess, and Mrs. Steve Berkej was announced as hostess for Feb 14. She will entertain at her home on Fair street.

* * *

Bridge was played at two tables yesterday when Mrs. LeRoy Tressel, Hoffman avenue, entertained members of the Valencia club. Mrs. F. U. Nail and Mrs. Herbert Garrett won the prizes. The next meeting will be Feb. 14 at the home of Mrs. C. C. Pollock, Park avenue west.

* * *

MEET TONIGHT.

Mrs. Sarah Cramer, 109 West Fifth street, will be hostess to members of the Past Pocahontas association tonight at her home.

Tropics Subject of Review, Paper Given Before 23

Tropical islands were the theme of the study program presented yesterday at the Women's Club before 23 members of the Tourist club. "South Sea Islands" was the title of the paper presented by Mrs. E. G. Corwin when Mrs. Frank Hartman entertained. Much of her material was taken from articles by a feature writer for the Columbus Dispatch.

She illustrated the paper with a map and photographic reproductions taken from the paper. In conclusion Mrs. Corwin explained that it was hard to capture the glory of the tropical islands, and that Hawaii is the paradise of the islands.

In her talk she told of the people, the customs and the background of many of the large island groups. Mrs. B. W. Forkner followed with a book review. The story she gave was written by the Dutch author, Madelon Lulos and told of the life of a Javanese boy, Ruki, who was tricked into working on a rubber plantation.

Mrs. J. R. Turner will be the guest speaker at the home of Mrs. A. C. Tuttle, Summit court. Feb. 14 when the club members are entertained at a colonial tea.

Winter Picnic Set For February By Ruth Circle Class

When 14 members and one guest, Mrs. C. J. Anderson, of the Ruth Circle class of the First Christian church met yesterday evening at the home of Mrs. J. C. Robinson, 504 South Main street, they made plans for their annual winter picnic which will be held in the pavilion at North Lake park sometime this month.

Mrs. D. B. Wolfgang, president of the class, conducted the business session, and appointed Mrs. Earl Penny, Mrs. O. J. Fink, Mrs. Carl Laubscher, Mrs. Earl Lutz, Mrs. E. M. Beer, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Lloyd Armstrong, Mrs. Frank Brannon, Mrs. Clarence Swaidner, to the committee.

Mrs. Penny was the associate hostess for last evening's meeting, and Mrs. John McPhern read the devotions. The group had contests during the evening, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Stanley Buchter, Mrs. Fink, Mrs. Swaidner, and Mrs. Laubscher. Refreshments were served later at tables decorated with valentine appointments.

Mrs. B. F. Hagelbarger has invited the class to her home on West Third street for the meeting of Feb. 28, when Mrs. George Brooker and Mrs. Wolfgang will be the associate hostesses.

Mrs. Searle Gives Review for Club

The last day of January was chosen by the Tuesday Book club for a program and social hour at the Women's Club when Mrs. Carl Schwier entertained yesterday afternoon. Mrs. George Searle reviewed "Opera — Front and Back," by H. H. Taubman, before 18 members and three guests.

Guests of the organization were Mrs. W. B. Osborn, Mrs. Carl Weikert and Mrs. George Reichert from Shelby. The tea table was decorated with sweet peas, jonquils and roses, and Mrs. Walter C. Stevens and Mrs. J. T. Lusignan, jr., presided.

The second book review, "Twilight in Vienna," by Frischauer, was given by Mrs. Harrison D. Lowrey. The next meeting of the club will be a Valentine bridge-luncheon at 1 p. m. Feb. 14. Mrs. Donald Black, Raemelton House, will be hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harold Bruce, Mrs. Leo D. Wright and Mrs. J. Rexford Small.

Willard

HEADS CLUB AGAIN

Mrs. R. P. Sharick was re-elected president of Willard Fedcrated clubs for the fifth consecutive term at the annual meeting at the assembly room at the Y. M. C. A. Monday afternoon. Other officers elected were:

Hair Ribbon Adopted By Eastern Debs

New York debutantes are tying hair-ribbons in their curls these midwinter evenings. Mary Augusta Kinnan wore this pink velvet one when she supped with Thomas Ennis at the Rainbow Room recently. Her black crepe frock was designed with a strapless bodice and full skirt. Her jewels were a gem-studded clip and pearls.

Family Home Will Be Scene of Nuptial Party for Miss Herring

THE final social function of the Herring family at the farm residence near Lucas will be, fittingly enough, the wedding reception for Miss Freeda Herring this Saturday evening. The home, which has been in the Herring family for nearly a century, was recently purchased by Louis Bromfield, well-known Mansfield author, and he and his family will take possession of the estate about April 1.

Miss Herring will become the bride of Clifford A. Faust, 237 Bartley avenue, at 7.30 p. m., Feb. 4, in the little church across the valley, the Pleasant Valley church, which the family has attended for a number of years.

Miss Herring, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Herring, has been a teacher at the Woodland school, and she has resided in Mansfield at 177 West Third street. Mr. Faust is the son of N. H. Faust, Debuque, Iowa. The informal evening ceremony will be followed by a reception at the bride's home during the evening.

* * *

MEET TOMORROW.

Mrs. C. E. Rowan will entertain members of the Thursday Mothers club at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. M. Buchanan, 21 Howard street, tomorrow.

* * *

HOSTESS TO CLASS.

Miss Hazel McMeeken, president of the Earnest Workers class of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was in charge of the business session and read the evening's devotions when that group met last night at the home of Mrs. O. P. Wervey on West Fifth street. The evening was spent socially, and the hostess served refreshments, buffet style. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 28 at the home of Mrs. W. K. Dise, 334 South Main street.

PLAY CONTRACT.

After a short business meeting contract bridge was played at two tables yesterday by members of the Chatter club who met at the home of Mrs. W. E. Saylor, 28 Ford avenue. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Howard Stauffer and Mrs. Ralph Smith. Plans were made for the annual dinner of the club, but no date was set. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ralph Smith, Lincoln Heights, and the date will be announced later.

Varieteers Play Bridge At Mrs. Gehrisch's

Mrs. Robert Gehrisch was hostess for a meeting of the Varieteers Bridge club yesterday evening at her home on Marion avenue. Two guests were also present for the affair.

Bridge was in play at two tables during the evening, and the high score prize was awarded to Miss Theo Ray. Miss Dorothy Altaffer was the recipient of the guest prize. A light luncheon was served at the small tables by the hostess.

Miss Sue Oakes has invited the club members to her home on West Dickson avenue for the next meeting, which will be held on Feb. 14.

Auxiliary Entertains With Dinner Party

There were 36 members and four guests, Mrs. James Gills, Mrs. Carl Graham, Mrs. John Klinger and Mrs. Harry Longsdorf, in attendance last evening when the Women's Auxiliary to the International Typographical Union entertained members of the union with a covered-dish dinner at the Trades Council hall.

During the business session, the group made plans for the state conference of the union, which will be held in Mansfield April 15 and 16. Carl Graham is chairman of the general committee in charge of arrangements for the conference.

Mrs. Ethel Brubach resigned her post as president of the Women's auxiliary, and the former vice president, Mrs. Gerlina Merryman will take her place. Mrs. Zora Weimer was elected vice president of the organization during the meeting.

The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be on March 7 at the home of Mrs Harold Bracey, 35 Altamont avenue.

PLAN DANCE.

Plans for a St. Patrick day dance to be held March 18 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel were discussed yesterday evening when members of the Chi Sigma sorority met for their regular business session in the Chinese room at the hotel.

The group will meet again next Tuesday evening for a business session, and next Thursday evening will entertain in honor of Mrs. Dorothy Walker, national vice president of Chi Sigma, who is stopping in Mansfield on her way to St. Louis for the sorority province convention. Both of these functions will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

NEW CONSTITUTION ADOPTED BY GROUP

Child Study Members Make Plans to Have Book Reviews, Guest Speakers, Four Parties Each Year at Re-organization Session.

WHEN members of the Child Study club met last night with Mrs. Ivor Balyeat on Edgewood road a new constitution was adopted by the organization, and plans were made to include book reviews and talks by guest speakers at future meetings.

Mrs. Gordon Colby was associate hostess for the session at which members also decided to have four parties during the year for members and their children. These affairs will be held in celebration of Valentine Day, Halloween, Christmas and during the summer a picnic will be held.

A party for parents will be held March 11 at the home of Mrs. Coleman Todd, Park avenue west. At this time Dr. C. L. Anspach, Ashland college, will speak. The next regular meeting will be Feb. 28 with Mrs. William Reister as hostess.

Members also planned to have a personal problem round table at each meeting. At this time members will discuss discipline problems. Last night's program was arranged by Mrs. Elmer Hedeen.

Mrs. Reister spoke on "Creative Play," and she was followed by Mrs. Lowell Bourns who spoke on "Stand Behind Your Child." Plans for the Valentine party were not completed at last night's meeting.

Mrs. Lomax Hostess At Rosalie Club Luncheon

Mrs. Marie Lomax was hostess at a 1 o'clock luncheon yesterday when she entertained members of the Rosalie club. There were eight present for bunco which followed the dinner. Mrs. Lomax was presented with a gift by the club members in honor of her birthday.

Prizes were won by Mrs. John Van Cura, Mrs. Frank Williams and Mrs. C. F. Fensch. The next meeting will be Feb. 21 at the home of Mrs. Helen McClellan, 500 Crescent road, at 1 p. m.

By MARIANNE

WHEN a westbound train left Columbus this morning there were two very excited travelers aboard. Madalyn (Mrs. Charles) Kuntz went down to the state capital late last week . . . and so today she and her sister, Mary Parkinson, left for California They plan to divide their time between Los Angeles and San Francisco . . . and they'll visit the Golden Gate exposition . . . and they won't be home until around the first of March.

* * *

And still the state of summer and sunshine—Florida—continues to beckon Mansfielders southward. Mr and Mrs. E. O Townsend are planning to drive down soon . . . and will remain for several months.

* * *

Just received a card from John and Chessie Hoffman—they're in Orlando, Fla., now . . . and, of course, "are having a wonderful time." The Hoffmans are taking a three-months' trailer trip through Florida—down the east coast and up the west . . . with stopovers at all of the principal cities.

* * *

AS IF A TRIP to Bermuda last November wasn't enough to satisfy anyone as an adequate retreat from the winter cold, Rhea and Tim Sammons decided to spend the remainder of the winter in Florida They drove down recently and are staying in Miami until late in March.

* * *

Mary Jo (Mrs Joy) Herbert is well on her way to Florida too. She's driving down to Ft. Lauderdale with her two small children, Jay and Joyanne. Jean Bushnell accompanied them on the trip . . . and they plan to be gone a couple of months or so.

* * *

Their Florida vacation is a thing of the past for Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Taylor—they returned from a three-month sojourn in the south yesterday. The Taylors visited in Miami, St. Petersburg, Palm Beach and Tampa.

IT'S always pleasant to hear about former Mansfield residents You probably remember Frances (Shannon) and Bill Martin . . . well, they're proud possessors of a week-old daughter, Judith . The Martins live in Cleveland now—where Bill is affiliated with an advertising service agency . . . and they also have a son, William who is five years old While they were still living in Mansfield, Bill painted that beautiful picture of the "Ascension of Christ" which is on the wall behind the altar at St John's Evangelical and Reformed church.

* * *

Dorothy Klohs resumed her studies at Ohio university today. . . . She's a sophomore at the school this semester and is studying hospital dietetics

* * *

Gertrude Lawrence is appearing in Cleveland now in the successful Broadway play, "Susan and God" . . . and Mrs. C. V. Marks, Mrs. W. W. Stark and Mrs. Carl Stander were three lucky Mansfield women who drove up for the performance today.

FRIENDS of Martha (Hering) Tillotson will be happy to know that she is back in Mansfield for the first time since her marriage last October Martha and her husband John, are living in Chicago, Ill., now . . . but as John was called to Springfield, Mass on business, Martha stopped off here to visit with her parents Mr and Mrs H. H. Hering—and she plans to remain for three or four weeks

STLYE NOTE It looks like cyclamen is the new shade for spring. I've seen many of the local women wearing hats of that color. . . . There are dresses too . . . and even a complete blend of makeup—including rouge and lipstick
